TIEBREAKING PROCEDURES

DIVISION TIES

TWO CLUBS

1. Head-to-head (best won-lost-tied percentage in games between the clubs).
2. Best won-lost-tied percentage in games played within the division.
3. Best won-lost-tied percentage in games played within the conference.
4. Best won-lost-tied percentage in common games, if applicable.
5. Best net points in division games.
6. Best net points in all games.
7. Strength of schedule.
8. Best net touchdowns in all games.
9. Coin toss.

THREE OR MORE CLUBS

(Note: If two clubs remain tied after other clubs are eliminated during any step, tie-breaker reverts to step 1 of two-club format.)

1. Head-to-head (best won-lost-tied percentage in games among the clubs).
2. Best won-lost-tied percentage in games played within the division.
3. Best won-lost-tied percentage in games played within the conference.
4. Best won-lost-tied percentage in common games.
5. Best net points in division games.
6. Best net points in all games.
7. Strength of schedule.
8. Best net touchdowns in all games.
9. Coin toss.

WILD-CARD TIES

If necessary to break ties to determine the three wild-card clubs from each conference, the following steps will be taken:

1. If all the tied clubs are from the same division, apply division tie-breaker.
2. If the tied clubs are from different divisions, apply the steps listed below.
3. When the first wild-card team has been identified, the procedure is repeated to name the second wild card (i.e., eliminate all but the highest-ranked club in each division prior to proceeding to step 2), and repeated a third time, if necessary, to identify the third wild card. In situations where three or more teams from the same division are involved in the procedure, the original seeding of the teams remains the same for subsequent applications of the tie-breaker if the top-ranked team in that division qualifies for a wild-card berth.

TWO CLUBS

1. Head-to-head, if applicable.
2. Best won-lost-tied percentage in games played within the conference.
3. Best won-lost-tied percentage in common games, minimum of four.
4. Best average net points in conference games.
5. Best net points in all games.
6. Strength of schedule.
7. Best net touchdowns in all games.
8. Coin toss.

THREE OR MORE CLUBS

(Note: If two clubs remain tied after other clubs are eliminated, tie-breaker reverts to step 1 of two-club format.)

1. Apply division tie-breaker to eliminate all but highest-ranked club in each division prior to proceeding to step 1. The original seeding within a division upon application of the division tie-breaker remains the same for all subsequent applications of the procedure that are necessary to identify the three wild-card participants.
2. Head-to-head sweep (applicable only if one club has defeated each of the others or one club has lost to each of the others).
3. Best won-lost-tied percentage in games played within the conference.
4. Best won-lost-tied percentage in common games, minimum of four.
5. Best average net points in conference games.
6. Best net points in all games.

YEAR IN REVIEW

THE TOP STORIES OF THE PAST YEAR

By VITO STELLINO

For better or worse, the Dallas Cowboys—once known as America's Team—became a symbol of what's both right and wrong with America as they dominated the NFL's 76th season in 1995 on and off the field.

The Cowboys got a leg up on becoming the team of the '90s when they became the first team to win three Super Bowls in a four-year span by edging the Pittsburgh Steelers, 27-17, in Super Bowl XXX at Sun Devil Stadium in Tempe, Ariz. Yet the Cowboys' accomplishment on the field was obscured by the almost circus-like atmosphere surrounding the team off the field.

It started when owner Jerry Jones defied the league's marketing policies and started negotiating deals on his own outside the umbrella of NFL Properties. The NFL sued him for $300 million and he promptly countersued for $700 million, and Jones now seems headed for a bitter court fight against the other owners that may eventually decide the future direction of the league well into the next century.

Jones also signed Deion Sanders to a celebrated $35 million contract and then made a pizza commercial with the flamboyant cornerback in which Sanders turned the simple word "both" into a slogan.

Even the team's march to the Super Bowl was filled with controversy. Coach Barry Switzer was labeled "Bozo the Coach" by a New York tabloid after he elected to have the Cowboys gamble twice on 4th-and-1 from their own 29-yard-line in Philadelphia. Even after the ploy failed the first time—it was wiped out by the two-minute warning—the Cowboys tried again and were stopped.

Switzer, though, got the last laugh when the Cowboys won the Super Bowl and he stood on the podium with Jones and screamed, "We did it our way, baby! We did it! We did it! We did it!"

The Cowboys' euphoria didn't last long, though. On April 1, wide receiver Michael Irvin was indicted on drug-possession charges and there were allegations that the Cowboys players rented a house near their training facility—called The White House—to hold parties away from their wives. That prompted William Bennett, who wrote "The Book of Virtues," to comment, "If this is America's Team, then woe is America."

It may be a bit much to blame a country's ills on a football team, but then the Cowboys have been a larger-than-life team for years. Although the Cowboys have had problems in the past, the difference now is that there's a perception the tone is set at the top by Jones and Switzer.

Jones' alleged womanizing was chronicled in a book entitled, "King of the Cowboys," and Switzer left the head coaching job at the University of Oklahoma under fire because of the conduct of the players. Even Jones conceded, "Believe me, I'm extremely sensitive to this. I think about image every day and I'm very aware of where some have said it all starts."

The Cowboys, though, weren't the league's only image problem. Franchise free agency became an even bigger headache as teams continued to switch cities for better deals.

Four teams—the Los Angeles Rams, Los Angeles Raiders, Cleveland Browns and Houston Oilers—got the approval to move in a span of less than 13 months from April 12, 1995, to April 30, 1996, and several others talked about moving. Bills owner Ralph Wilson was one of the most vocal critics of all the franchise hopping.

"This whole thing has turned into a broad comedy. Each day I wake up waiting to see who's going to throw the next pie," said Wilson, the founder of the Bills in 1960. Wilson said he was reminded of the Marx Brothers' classic "A Night at the Opera" when they switched the music so the orchestra started playing "Take Me Out to the Ball Game" instead of the opera. "We used to play serious music in this league," Wilson said. "Now we're playing, 'Take Me Out to the Ball Game.' "

Even commissioner Paul Tagliabue, often criticized for not having a game plan to deal with the various crises facing the league, warned the owners at their meeting in March in Palm Beach, Fla., that they were in danger of alienating the fans. "We are at a crossroads," Tagliabue said. "The choices we make now will determine the future respect we earn from the fans and the future health of the league."

Although the NFL is enjoying record prosperity, it has to be concerned about its stability and image as it enters the final five years of this century.

DALLAS: DYNASTY OR SOAP OPERA?

The Cowboys started carving out a niche for themselves in the record books along with the Packers of the '60s, the Steelers of the '70s and the 49ers of the '80s when they won their third Super Bowl in the '90s. Counting the two Super Bowls they won in the 1970s during the Tom Landry regime, they joined the 49ers as the only five-time Super Bowl champions.

The Cowboys, though, are unique in one way. No team has overcome the distractions they faced and emerged as the champion. It was such a season of turmoil for quarterback Troy Aikman that he simply said after the Super Bowl, "I think it's a feeling of relief more than anything else."

It's no secret that Aikman isn't on the same wavelength with Switzer's laid-back style. He was more in tune with the intense style of former coach Jimmy Johnson. Aikman felt that talent was the least of the team's problems. During the season, he said, "If we do not go back to the Super Bowl ... it will be because of internal conflicts within our own team, lack of discipline, a lack of confidence going into football games, lack of preparation and guys not performing at a level they're capable of—not because of any lack of talent."

Aikman didn't give details at the time, but word leaked out during Super Bowl week that former assistant coach John Blake, now at Oklahoma, had suggested Aikman was quicker to criticize black teammates than white teammates. The black leaders on the team all scoffed at the suggestion Aikman was a racist, but it was obvious Aikman didn't feel Switzer was quick enough to defend him and it was one more distraction the team had to overcome.

The Cowboys seemed to be reeling in the second half of the season. They were drilled by San Francisco, 38-20, in Week 11—even with San Francisco's Elvis Grbac subbing for injured Steve Young at quarterback—and then lost back-to-back games to Washington and Philadelphia in Weeks 14 and 15. The Philadelphia loss featured Switzer's decision to go for it on 4th-and-1 from the Eagles' 29, only to have Emmitt Smith get stuffed twice.

The following week, the Cowboys were trailing the Giants, 20-18, with 2:59 left when Kevin Williams made an 11-yard catch on 3rd-and-10 from the New York 38. Chris Boniol then kicked a 35-yard field goal as time expired for a critical 21-20 victory.

The Cowboys routed Arizona, 37-13, in the finale to wrap up home-field advantage throughout the playoffs and then beat the Eagles, 30-11, and the Packers, 38-27, in their first two playoff games to advance to the Super Bowl against Pittsburgh.

The Steelers held Emmitt Smith to 49 yards and had the edge in first downs (25-15) and net yards (310-254). But Pittsburgh quarterback Neil O'Donnell threw two second-half passes right into the arms of cornerback Larry Brown, who caught both of them and set up the touchdowns that decided the game.

Jones thought it was kind of fitting the Cowboys had to struggle to win. "This game represents the kind of season we've had," Jones said. "It's wonderful just to hold this trophy. This, under the circumstances, for me is the sweetest."

THE OTHER CONFERENCE

The AFC, which has become the NFL's answer to the Washington Generals in the Super Bowl, lost for the 12th straight time even though the Steelers had a chance to pull it out when they took over on their 32-yard line with 4:15 left, trailing, 20-17. On the second play, though, O'Donnell threw a pass into Brown's arms that ended the Steelers' hope of an upset, although they did cover the two-touchdown spread.

Overall, the AFC had an interesting season that featured the improbable rise of the Indianapolis Colts. Since Bob Irsay, who suffered a stroke during the season, bought the team in 1972, the Colts hadn't won a playoff game in either Baltimore or Indianapolis.

They made the playoffs as a wild-card team as quarterback Jim Harbaugh became the comeback player of the year by twice leading the team back from 24-3 deficits against the Jets and Dolphins. They then pulled off a pair of road playoff victories, upsetting San Diego, 35-20, and Kansas City, 10-7, to advance to the AFC title game against Pittsburgh. The Colts lost a heartbreaker to the Steelers, 20-16, when Harbaugh's "Hail Mary" pass on the final play rolled off the lap of Aaron Bailey in the end zone.

The Chiefs posted the best record (13-3) in the NFL during the regular season, ranked No. 1 in both scoring defense and rushing offense, and had the best net difference (plus-12) in turnovers. Yet they still lost their first-round playoff game at home to the Colts when Lin Elliott missed three field-goal attempts, including one that would have tied the score with 42 seconds left. It was another frustrating loss for coach Marty Schottenheimer, who has yet to make the Super Bowl in Cleveland or Kansas City even though his teams have made the playoffs 10 times in the last 11 years.

DETHRONED

The San Francisco 49ers and San Diego Chargers, who played in Super Bowl XXIX, both made it to the playoffs, but lost first-round games. It was the second straight year that both Super Bowl teams failed to make it back.

San Francisco's running game was devastated when it lost Ricky Watters to Philadelphia in free agency and William Floyd to a serious knee injury at midseason. The 49ers had the No. 1 passing offense and were No. 23 in rushing.

The 49ers almost got away with the one-dimensional offense led by quarterback Steve Young, who missed five games with a shoulder injury. But it finally caught up with them when they lost to Atlanta, 28-27, in the regular-season finale and then were bounced out of the playoffs at home by the Green Bay Packers.

It was the first time since 1987 that San Francisco had lost a first-round playoff game. The team made one major adjustment in the offseason, bringing back former coach Bill Walsh as a consultant to offensive coordinator Marc Trestman. The move was greeted with raised eyebrows around the league because Walsh hasn't been the type to stay in the background. But at this stage of his career, he seems content with a limited role.

The Chargers, rocked in the offseason by the death of linebacker David Griggs in an auto accident, started out 4-7 before winning their final five games to make the playoffs. But they then lost at home to the Colts. General manager Bobby Beathard decided the team needed an attitude change and dumped malcontent running back Natrone Means and veteran defensive end Leslie O'Neal in an attempt to rejuvenate the club.

UPS AND DOWNS

Eight of the 12 teams that made the playoffs in 1994 were back last year as each conference had two new participants. In the NFC, Atlanta and Philadelphia replaced Chicago and Minnesota. Indianapolis and Buffalo replaced New England and Cleveland in the AFC.

Atlanta made it on the final weekend of the season with a 9-7 mark by upsetting the 49ers, although the feat cost the Falcons a first-round draft pick as part of the trade with the Colts for quarterback Jeff George. Had they lost the game, they would have had to give up only a second-round pick.

Philadelphia earned a wild-card spot in its first season under new coach Ray Rhodes, who won coach of the year honors by posting a 10-6 mark with a club that had lost its last seven games in 1994.

Indianapolis made the playoffs by beating New England on the final weekend of the season and then made it all the way to the AFC title game. Buffalo returned to its usual position atop the AFC East with a 10-6 mark. Its string of four Super Bowl appearances was snapped in 1994 when the Bills slumped to 7-9.

THE COACHING DERBY

Five teams changed coaches after the season, although there are only four new coaches because Ted Marchibroda simply switched teams. He moved from Indianapolis to Baltimore after the Colts offered him only a one-year deal following his team's march to the AFC title game.

Marchibroda now has the unique distinction of coaching two different teams in Baltimore—the Colts and Ravens—after previously coaching the Colts in two different cities—Baltimore and Indianapolis. Marchibroda replaced Bill Belichick, who wasn't brought from Cleveland by Ravens owner Art Modell and became an assistant in New England.

Offensive coordinator Lindy Infante replaced Marchibroda in Indianapolis. Infante was 24-40 as a head coach in Green Bay from 1988-91.

Another head coach returning to the sidelines was Jimmy Johnson, who coached the Cowboys to back-to-back Super Bowls in 1992 and 1993 before parting ways with Jerry Jones when their egos became too big to coexist on the same team. Johnson resurfaced in Miami, where Don Shula stepped down as coach of the Dolphins after 26 years. Replacing a legend is nothing new for Johnson, who followed Tom Landry in Dallas. Shula and Landry are first and third on the all-time victory list.

The other two new coaches are Tony Dungy, the former Minnesota Vikings defensive coordinator who replaced Sam Wyche in Tampa Bay, and Vince Tobin, the former Colts defensive coordinator who replaced Buddy Ryan in Arizona. Dungy's appointment gave the NFL three black head coaches; the other two are Philadelphia's Ray Rhodes and Minnesota's Dennis Green.

A LEGEND STEPS DOWN

Don Shula retired after a combined 33 years in Baltimore and Miami as the winningest coach in NFL history with 347 victories (including playoffs). He also became the only coach to take six teams to the Super Bowl and, of course, the only one to post a perfect season (the '72 Dolphins went 17-0).

Shula's career ended on a frustrating note with a group of overpaid underachievers who started out 4-0 and then struggled into the playoffs with a 9-7 mark. The Dolphins were routed by Buffalo, 37-22, in a wild-card playoff game that turned out to be Shula's last game. It didn't help that the fans turned on Shula in Miami as he got a torrent of criticism, but he was gracious when he made the announcement he was stepping down.

"I'm at peace with my myself," he said. "We're going to make this a happy time. Now it's time to move on."

Owner Wayne Huizenga probably gave Shula a push, but he said, "It was always Don's decision to make and he made it. The man is a legend."

Art Modell gave Shula a chance to join his new Baltimore team as either a coach or a front-office executive, but he decided to call it a career.

FAN SUPPORT

The NFL continued its hold on the fans as it set a total paid attendance record for the seventh straight season. With the addition of the two expansion teams, Carolina and Jacksonville, attendance surpassed the 19 million mark for the first time as 19,202,757 paid to see 315 NFL games, including the preseason and the Pro Bowl. The regular-season average of 62,682 also set a record, topping the 1994 mark of 62,636.

It also continued to be the most popular sports attraction on TV. The Super Bowl attracted 138.5 million viewers—the largest TV audience for any show in history. That topped the previous record of 134 million set in January 1994, when Dallas played Buffalo in Super Bowl XXVIII.

The Steelers-Cowboys Super Bowl attracted a 46 rating, meaning 46 percent of the TV sets in America were tuned to the game, and a 68 share, meaning 68 percent of the sets turned on were tuned to the game.

It was only the ninth-highest-rated Super Bowl, though, because network ratings have dipped in the era of cable TV. The record rating of 49.1 was set for Super Bowl XVI between San Francisco and Cincinnati in January 1982.

ABC's "Monday Night Football" was the fifth-highest-rated prime-time TV show for the second straight year with a 17.0 rating, although it dipped 4 percent from 1994.

Fox, which has the advantage of the larger NFC cities, won the Sunday battle with a 12.5 rating, an increase of 3 percent. NBC had edged Fox, 12.5 to 12.1, in 1994, when Fox was in its first year of showing NFL football. But NBC was back in its customary No. 2 position in '95 with an 11.1 rating, a drop of 11 percent. Fox's telecast of the Dallas-San Francisco game in Week 11 got a 21.3 rating, the highest rating for a Sunday-afternoon game since the Bears-Cowboys did a 22.5 in November 1985.

SETTING RECORDS

Miami quarterback Dan Marino was the most prolific record setter last year, breaking four all-time career passing marks—most touchdown passes (352), most pass attempts (6,531), most passing yards (48,841) and most completions (3,913). Marino was frustrated, though, that the Dolphins lost on three of the days he set those records.

Jerry Rice of San Francisco, who already held the record for most touchdowns in a career, surpassed James Lofton to become the all-time leader in receiving yards with 15,123.

Barry Sanders of Detroit and Thurman Thomas of Buffalo joined Eric Dickerson as the only players to rush for 1,000 yards in seven straight years.

Herman Moore of Detroit caught 123 passes, breaking the single-season record of 122 set in 1994 by Minnesota's Cris Carter. Both Carter and Rice tied the old mark with 122 catches last year.

FRANCHISE FREE AGENCY

From 1960-82, the NFL was a model of stability. It didn't have a single team move during that span until Raiders owner Al Davis won a lawsuit to move his team from Oakland to Los Angeles. That set the stage for the move of the Colts from Baltimore to Indianapolis in 1984 and the Cardinals from St. Louis to Arizona in 1988.

The league then opened the floodgates when it made a tactical mistake and bypassed the two largest markets with stadium deals, St. Louis and Baltimore, for two smaller markets, Carolina and Jacksonville, in its 1993 expansion. It passed up Baltimore because it already had four teams on the eastern seaboard from Washington to New York. It turned down St. Louis because the city didn't have its ownership group set, even though the NFL could have awarded the city a team first and then worried about the ownership group later.

The result was the Rams quickly targeted St. Louis and four teams wound up getting the green light to move from April 12, 1995, to April 30, 1996. The owners approved the move of the Rams from Anaheim to St. Louis by a 23-6-1 vote after being threatened with a lawsuit when they first rejected the move.

On June 23, 1995, Davis signed a deal to move the Raiders back to Oakland and it was approved by the owners, 23-0-5, on July 21 with two teams (the Cardinals and 49ers) not voting because they had left the meeting before the ballot was conducted. Davis was one of five owners to abstain on the vote on his own move along with the Rams, Bucs, Redskins and Jets.

The league got another jolt on November 6, 1995, when Browns owner Art Modell announced he was moving the Browns to Baltimore, a decision that started a firestorm of controversy around the country because of the rich legacy of the team dating back to the Paul Brown days. It raged for three months before the league made a deal with Cleveland to give the city a new team by 1999 in a new stadium that will be built with the help of a loan of up to $48 million from the league. The new team—either an existing team or an expansion team—will be called the Browns and retain the Browns heritage. The owners approved that deal, 25-2-3. Only two owners—Ralph Wilson of Buffalo and Dan Rooney of Pittsburgh—voted against the settlement that was produced at a meeting on February 9 in Chicago.

"It was wrong," Wilson said of the Browns' move. "I told the owners the country will never forgive this move. Never." Rooney complained that the owners didn't address the matter of whether the Browns' move met the league guidelines. Three other teams—the Raiders, Cardinals and Rams—abstained on the Cleveland-Baltimore deal.

The Browns, meanwhile, were renamed the Ravens in Baltimore, a reference to the poet Edgar Allan Poe, who wrote "The Raven" and is buried in Baltimore.

There was much less controversy when the Houston Oilers negotiated a deal to move to Nashville. The owners approved it by a 23-6-1 vote at an April 30 meeting in Atlanta. Davis, who doesn't believe the owners have a right to stop moves, abstained as usual, while the Steelers, Bills, Vikings, Giants, Bengals and Redskins voted against the Oilers' move. The league added a proviso that it is contingent on the U.S. Congress not passing a bill forcing the league to give expansion teams to cities that lose teams.

The voters in Nashville, in a special referendum May 7, approved an $80 million bond issue to help pay the city's $149 million share of the $292 million deal. The Oilers are committed to play in Houston, however, in 1996 and '97.

Two other cities, Seattle and Cincinnati, had close calls but now appear likely to keep their teams.

Seattle owner Ken Behring announced February 1 that he was moving the Seahawks to Los Angeles even though he didn't have a deal to play there. He even closed his training facility and moved the team's weight training equipment to the Rams' former facility in Anaheim and opened it for workouts. But facing the threat of a $500,000 fine from the league and a court fight in Seattle over the final 10 years of his lease, Behring retreated to Seattle and sold an option to Microsoft co-founder Paul Allen, who was given 14 months to buy the team.

Allen still will need a new stadium in Seattle to keep the team viable. Earthquake experts scoffed at Behring's claims that the Kingdome was a seismic risk, but the stadium isn't up to current standards and, in fact, was rocked by a small-to-moderate earthquake May 2, forcing a baseball game between the Mariners and Cleveland Indians to be suspended in the seventh inning.

In Cincinnati, voters decided in March to approve a half-cent sales-tax hike to build new stadiums for the Bengals and Reds. The Bengals were likely to leave town if the measure hadn't passed.

Several other owners are trying to get new stadiums.

The most critical situation is in Tampa, where Malcolm Glazer paid $192 million a year ago for the Buccaneers. Although he's committed to playing in Tampa in 1996, the team could leave next year if public funding for a stadium isn't approved.

THE LEGAL FILE

The legal season seems to run all year long in the NFL as the league found itself in court on several fronts fighting antitrust suits.

The most significant ones involve the battle by Jerry Jones to make his own marketing deals outside the umbrella of NFL Properties. The league sued him for $300 million and he countersued for $700 million. Jones contends the individual teams are better off making their own deals, but the rest of the owners feel the league can deal more from a position of strength making league-wide deals.

There is an unusual, bitter, personal aspect to this battle. On the day of the Super Bowl, Paul Tagliabue went on "This Week with David Brinkley" and, in effect, called Jones a thief by saying he takes what does not belong to him. "Jerry Jones dishonors the agreement he made when he came into the NFL partnership," Tagliabue said. "He takes what does not belong to him. The NFL is what we sell. It belongs to 30 teams, not the Dallas Cowboys."

Carmen Policy, president of the San Francisco 49ers, said of Jones, "There is money and there is class, and the two aren't synonymous." Jones, though, maintained his way would eventually help the league. "It would be better for the league, better for the fans, better for the game," he said.

The league also faces two suits from Al Davis over his move of the Raiders back to Oakland. After the league filed a suit against Davis over the sharing of club-seat money in Oakland, he countersued and then filed a second one charging the league conspired to destroy his negotiations to stay in Los Angeles. That's a rather curious charge since the league didn't want to lose a second team in Los Angeles.

The league also faces a suit from the city of St. Louis over its $29 million relocation fee. It contends it shouldn't have to pay a relocation fee because Davis didn't pay one when he went back to Oakland.

Then there are suits by two former owners of the New England Patriots, Billy Sullivan and Victor Kiam, who both contend they were forced to sell the team. There have been two trials in the Sullivan case. Sullivan won the first, but it was overturned on appeal. The second ended in a hung jury and the case may now be headed toward mediation. Kiam has yet to have his day in court.

THE HARD (?) CAP

The NFL's salary cap is turning out to be a lot softer than the hard cap it thought it had established in 1994. Not only are teams finding ways around the cap with huge signing bonuses, but the cap itself keeps climbing at a much faster rate than anticipated.

The cap jumped from $34.6 million in 1994 to $37.1 million in 1995 to $40.8 million in 1996. The owners protested that the cap should have been about $2 million lower in '96. They argued the one-time addition of the expansion teams artificially increased revenues. But federal judge David Doty agreed with the players and allowed the increase.

The extra money helped contribute to another round of free-agent signings. The biggest one was the five-year, $25 million deal quarterback Neil O'Donnell got from the New York Jets to leave Pittsburgh.

Among the other big signings were Dallas defensive lineman Russell Maryland's six-year, $19 million deal with the Raiders; Pittsburgh tackle Leon Searcy's five-year, $17 million deal with the Jaguars; Miami cornerback Troy Vincent's five-year, $16.5 million deal with the Eagles; New York Giants tackle Jumbo Elliott's five-year, $14.8 million deal with the Jets; Buffalo linebacker Cornelius Bennett's four-year, $13.6 million deal with the Falcons; Miami linebacker Bryan Cox's four-year, $13.2 million deal with the Bears, and Dallas cornerback Larry Brown's five-year, $12.5 million deal with the Raiders.

As of May 1, 88 players had changed teams (83 unrestricted free agents and five restricted) and their salaries had jumped from an average of $775,100 to $1,327,000, an increase of 71 percent.

Among the players who didn't move, cornerback Aeneas Willams got a five-year, $17 million deal from Arizona, Indianapolis matched the five-year, $17.5 million deal linebacker Quentin Coryatt got from Jacksonville, and the New York Giants matched the six-year, $16.45 million deal that San Francisco offered to running back Rodney Hampton. Before the '95 season started, quarterback Drew Bledsoe got a seven-year, $42 million deal from New England.

Two veteran quarterbacks got big deals after the season. Miami's Dan Marino got a three-year, $17.73 million contract, and Denver's John Elway got a five-year, $29.5 million deal.

Despite the escalating salaries, the owners figure they're better with a cap than without one and negotiated a deal to extend the current collective bargaining agreement by one year to the year 2000, with options for two more one-year extensions. It could mean the league will have labor peace until the year 2003.

INSTANT REPLAY

After a series of bad calls—notably in Pittsburgh, where the Steelers were awarded a touchdown in each of their two home playoff games even though instant replay showed neither should have counted—the debate about instant replay started again.

There was discussion about whether to bring it back on a limited basis for scoring, sideline and end zone plays. Proponents didn't have 23 votes to bring it back, so the league settled for experimenting with different concepts in 1996 to see how they would work. The testing will include the use of sideline monitors, so field officials could overturn calls. The league will report back to the owners next year on the results of the experiment.

How the officials do this year will likely affect the debate about instant replay. It seemed as if the Steelers were involved in much of the controversy in '95. Besides the two bad TD plays in the playoffs, there was a fiasco in Week 4 when officials ruled the Steelers had 12 men on the field when Minnesota's Fuad Reveiz missed a 48-yard field-goal attempt. Film showed Pittsburgh had 11 players, but Reveiz made it on the second try from the 43. Coach Bill Cowher was fined $7,500 for stuffing a photo of the play into the pocket of referee Gordon McCarter as the teams left the field at halftime. McCarter and line judge Ben Montgomery each lost a game check—$4,009 and $2,825, respectively—for blowing the call in the first place.

FINES

The NFL tightened the rules on the helmet hits by defensive players against quarterbacks, prompting a series of $12,000 fines on pass rushers. It started with three in the exhibition season, including one against Greg Lloyd of Pittsburgh. During the regular season, Vinson Smith of Chicago, Bryce Paup of Buffalo, Marvin Washington and Erik Howard of the Jets, Chad Brown of Pittsburgh, Keith Hamilton of the Giants and Dave Wyman of Denver each was fined $12,000. Mike Mamula of Philadelphia and Mike Lodish of Denver were penalized $8,000, in the same game, for hits against each other's quarterback.

The defensive players weren't happy about the crackdown, contending the league wasn't worried about the safety of the defensive players. They also complained that the NFL was overprotecting the stars. "The only players they take care of are players like Troy Aikman and Emmitt Smith and people like that, the high-profile players that help them make money to put in their pockets," Smith said.

The biggest fine of the season went to Miami's Bryan Cox, who was fined $17,500 for getting into a fight in Buffalo and then spitting at the fans after he was ejected. Carwell Gardner of Buffalo was fined $15,000 for his role in the melee.

The other fines ranged from a $7,500 charge against Jets kicker Nick Lowery for hitting a ballboy to $1,000 fines issued by Seattle coach Dennis Erickson against three players for eating hot dogs on the sideline during an exhibition game.

THE DRUG PROBLEM

Under the provisions of a new drug treatment program agreed to by the owners and players, a total of eight players were suspended for violating the policy last year.

Bernard Williams of Philadelphia, who was suspended twice, Chuck Levy of Arizona, Clayton Holmes of Dallas and Carlton Haselrig of the Jets were suspended for a year. Tim Harris of San Francisco and Larry Webster of Cleveland were suspended for six games. Leon Lett of Dallas and Jamir Miller of Arizona were suspended for four games. Pittsburgh's Joel Steed was suspended for four games for testing positive for steroids.

Except for the length of the suspensions, no specifics were announced about the treatment program for the offenders because of the confidentiality clause in the agreement.

THE PLEA

Wide receiver Brian Blades of Seattle pleaded no contest in April 1996 to the charge of manslaughter in the firearm death of Charles Blades, his cousin, on July 5, 1995.

Blades contended the shooting was accidental and his lawyers told him he likely would have been acquitted, but Blades said he decided to enter the plea "to end the suffering of Charles' family, my family, my teammates and friends and our children." He was scheduled to be sentenced May 28.

THE MVP

Quarterback Brett Favre of Green Bay moved up in the quarterback rankings after passing for 4,413 yards and 38 touchdowns and leading the Packers to the NFC title game. He was the consensus choice as the league's Most Valuable Player.

"He is 'The Man,' and we're all his supporting cast," said Packers defensive lineman Reggie White. Favre, who doesn't suffer from a lack of confidence, said of his role with the Packers, "Here, they ask me to win the game. They live and die with what I do."

HALL OF FAME

Five new members were selected for enshrinement to the Hall of Fame. They included Joe Gibbs, who coached the Washington Redskins to four Super Bowls and won three of them with three different quarterbacks before retiring after the 1992 season. The four players elected were tackle Dan Dierdorf of St. Louis, wide receiver Charlie Joiner of Cincinnati and San Diego, defensive back Mel Renfro of Dallas and tackle Lou Creekmur, the old-timer selection, who played from 1950-59 with Detroit and was selected to eight consecutive Pro Bowls.

RETIREMENTS

Defensive back Ronnie Lott, an automatic future Hall of Famer who played on four San Francisco Super Bowl championship teams in the 1980s, and defensive lineman Leonard Marshall, who signed for one day with the New York Giants so he could end his career with the team he played for from 1983-92, were among the notable players to retire last year.

Among the others were wide receiver John Taylor of the 49ers, tackle Jackie Slater of the Rams, fullback Tom Rathman of the 49ers and Raiders, defensive end Charles Mann of the Redskins, cornerback Dennis Smith of the Broncos and linebacker Monte Coleman of the Redskins.

HIGHLIGHTS

Hero of the week: Kansas City quarterback Steve Bono was nearly flawless in the Chiefs' 34-3 victory at Seattle. Bono, making just the 12th start of his 11-year career and his first after succeeding the retired Joe Montana, was 18-of-23 for 278 yards and three touchdowns without being intercepted.

Goat of the week: Philadelphia running back Ricky Watters gained 37 yards on 17 carries in the Eagles' 21-6 loss to Tampa Bay. Watters, playing in his first game with Philadelphia after signing as a free agent, fumbled in the third quarter to set up the Bucs' second touchdown and also showed less-than-complete effort on two passes thrown to him over the middle late in the game.

Sub of the week: Pittsburgh quarterback Mike Tomczak led the Steelers to two second-half touchdowns in a 23-20 victory over Detroit. Tomczak, who came on after starter Neil O'Donnell broke a finger on his right hand, completed all six of his passes for 54 yards on the Steelers' 64-yard, game-winning drive.

Comeback of the week: Down 14-6 after three quarters, the New England Patriots scored 11 points in the final period to upend Cleveland, 17-14. Rookie Curtis Martin's 1-yard touchdown leap with 19 seconds left capped an 85-yard drive. Quarterback Drew Bledsoe kept the drive alive with a 1-yard sneak on fourth-and-1 to put the ball on Cleveland's 2 with 1:14 left.

Blowout of the week: Although Miami beat the New York Jets by a bigger margin, the biggest rout was Dallas' 35-0 shellacking of the New York Giants. Emmitt Smith ran for 163 yards on 21 attempts and scored four touchdowns, including a 60-yarder the first time he touched the ball. The Cowboys averaged 8.2 yards per offensive play to the Giants' 3.8.

Nail-biter of the week: San Francisco did not secure its 24-22 victory at New Orleans until cornerback Tyronne Drakeford sacked the Saints' Jim Everett and stripped him of the ball on fourth-and-1 at New Orleans' 40 with just over a minute left.

Hit of the week: Atlanta defensive end Lester Archambeau stripped Carolina quarterback Frank Reich of the ball and recovered on the Panthers' 31 on the first series of overtime. Three plays later, Morten Andersen kicked his third field goal of the game to give the Falcons a 23-20 victory.

Oddity of the week: Martin's 30-yard run on his first NFL carry was longer than any New England runner had in 1994.

Top rusher: Smith averaged 7.8 yards per carry in his 163-yard performance against the Giants.

Top passer: Reich was 23-of-44 for 329 yards and two touchdowns in Carolina's loss to Atlanta.

Top receiver: Shannon Sharpe caught 10 passes for 180 yards in Denver's 22-7 victory over Buffalo.

Notes: Doug Pelfrey kicked five field goals in Cincinnati's 24-21 victory at Indianapolis, including a 47-yarder at 2:36 of overtime. . . . The expansion Jacksonville Jaguars were held to 151 yards of total offense in their first regular-season game, a 10-7 loss to Houston. The Oilers drove 78 yards on their first possession of the game, which culminated in a 4-yard pass from Chris Chandler to Haywood Jeffires for the only touchdown. . . . Losses by Jacksonville and Carolina preserved the Minnesota Vikings' distinction of being the last NFL expansion team to win its inaugural game (in 1961). . . . The Rams upset the Packers, 17-14, by intercepting three Brett Favre passes and sacking him four times. Green Bay was shut out in a half for the first time in 42 games and had its 10-game home winning streak snapped. The victory was St. Louis' first as an NFL city since the Cardinals departed for Arizona after the 1987 season. . . . Pittsburgh cornerback Rod Woodson suffered ligament damage to his right knee against Detroit and didn't return until the Super Bowl. . . . Bears fullback Raymont Harris suffered a broken right collarbone about three minutes into Chicago's 31-14 win over Minnesota. . . . Terrell Davis became the first rookie to open the season as a backfield starter for Denver since Floyd Little in 1967. . . . Miami's 52-14 win over the Jets was the Dolphins' largest margin of victory and the Jets' largest margin of defeat in a non-strike game since Miami beat the Jets 45-3 in 1986. It was Miami's most points since a 55-14 win over St. Louis in 1977. . . . Kansas City rookie Tamarick Vanover's 99-yard touchdown return of the second-half kickoff was the longest ever allowed by Seattle. . . . Washington's Terry Allen, with 131 yards on 26 carries, became the first player to gain 100 yards rushing against a Buddy Ryan-coached defense since Gerald Riggs, playing for Washington, did so against Ryan's Philadelphia Eagles on September 17, 1989, or 62 games earlier. The Redskins' 27-7 win against Arizona ended their nine-game home losing streak and was Washington's first against an NFC East foe in almost two years. . . . Chicago had two receivers (Jeff Graham and Curtis Conway) gain more than 100 yards in the same game for the first time since 1985. . . . First-time NFL coaches posted a combined record of 2-4 in their debut games. Rich Brooks (St. Louis) and Mike White (Oakland) won, and Dom Capers (Carolina), Tom Coughlin (Jacksonville), Dennis Erickson (Seattle) and Ray Rhodes (Philadelphia) lost. . . . The 49ers played their 275th consecutive game without being shut out, breaking the record set by Cleveland from 1950-71. The 49ers were last blanked on October 9, 1977 (Atlanta, 7-0).

Quote of the week: Jets offensive tackle Matt Willig, trying to put a positive spin on the 38-point loss to Miami: "We're not destined to be the Jets of old. This team has changed so much, and we don't have those kinds of players anymore."

Hero of the week: Miami safety Michael Stewart was given the responsibility of covering Pro Bowl tight end Ben Coates the entire game and made 11 tackles, intercepted a pass and limited Coates to three catches (all in the fourth quarter) for 23 yards in the Dolphins' 20-3 win over New England.

Goat of the week: Jets quarterback Boomer Esiason fumbled and lost a snap at the Colts' 23 with 5½ minutes left after the Jets, leading 24-17, drove into field-goal range. Seven plays later, Indianapolis scored the game-tying touchdown. The Colts went on to win, 27-24, in overtime.

Sub of the week: Indianapolis quarterback Jim Harbaugh came off the bench for an ineffective Craig Erickson and rallied the Colts from a 24-3 deficit to the victory over the Jets. Harbaugh engineered touchdown drives of 80 and 75 yards in the fourth quarter as the Colts, who trailed by 21 points with 2:11 left in the third period, matched the biggest comeback in franchise history.

Comeback of the week: Kansas City overcame a 17-3 deficit midway through the fourth quarter to edge the New York Giants, 20-17, on Lin Elliott's 23-yard field goal at 7:49 of overtime. Steve Bono finished 18-of-22 and led the Chiefs on fourth-quarter scoring drives of 73 and 67 yards. The Chiefs held the Giants to one first down in the second half.

Blowout of the week: San Francisco crushed Atlanta, 41-10, in a matchup of NFC West foes. Steve Young started fast, completing all six of his pass attempts on the 49ers' first possession, which ended with him throwing an 18-yard touchdown pass to Jerry Rice. Rice, who equaled Don Maynard's NFL record with his 50th 100-yard receiving day, caught six passes for 105 yards in the first quarter alone as San Francisco took a 17-0 lead.

Nail-biter of the week: After building leads of 21-0 and 24-7, Green Bay held on to beat Chicago, 27-24, on Monday night. The Packers held the Bears, down 27-21 at the time, to a field goal with nine minutes left after Chicago drove to the Packers' 2. The Bears' last possession ended when Reggie White sacked Erik Kramer and forced a fumble that Wayne Simmons recovered at Chicago's 22 with 1:59 left.

Hit of the week: By Raiders defensive tackle Jerry Ball, who knocked the ball loose from Washington running back Terry Allen in the third quarter of a 6-6 game. Oakland recovered and marched 40 yards in nine plays, taking the lead for good on Jeff Hostetler's 1-yard touchdown pass to Andrew Glover.

Oddity of the week: One week after leading the league with 329 yards passing, Carolina's Frank Reich threw for 44 yards against Buffalo.

Top rusher: Natrone Means carried 26 times for 115 yards in San Diego's 14-10 victory over Seattle.

Top passer: Young was 27-of-40 for 331 yards and three touchdowns in the 49ers' rout of Atlanta.

Top receiver: Rice caught 11 of Young's passes for 167 yards and two touchdowns.

Notes: Minnesota's Fuad Reveiz kicked two field goals against Detroit to break John Carney's year-old NFL record for consecutive field goals. Reveiz ended the day with 30 in a row. . . . Giants running back Rodney Hampton had a streak of 494 carries without a fumble snapped in the first quarter against Kansas City. . . . Buffalo's Jim Kelly (four) and Carolina's Frank Reich (six) combined to complete the fewest passes in an NFL game in nearly 13 years in the Bills' 31-9 win over the Panthers. Kelly's quarterback rating for the game was 38.3, Reich's 19.7. . . . The Chiefs were 5-of-5 on fourth-down attempts against the Giants. . . . A 31-19 loss to the Eagles dropped the Cardinals' record in home openers in Arizona to 0-8. The Cards' last home-opening win came in 1987, when they still played in St. Louis. . . . The Oilers lost middle linebacker Al Smith (torn ligament in left foot) and free safety Marcus Robertson (torn anterior cruciate ligament in right knee) to season-ending injuries. . . . The Vikings started 1-1 for the eighth consecutive season. . . . In the Eagles-Cardinals game, both starting quarterbacks—

Philadelphia's Randall Cunningham and Arizona's Dave Krieg—were benched. . . . Brett Favre and Robert Brooks hooked up for a 99-yard touchdown in Green Bay's victory at Chicago. It was the longest scoring pass in Packers history and only the eighth 99-yard touchdown pass in NFL history.

Quote of the week: Rams owner Georgia Frontiere, who got a bit emotional after her team's second consecutive win: "I wanted to cry, but I couldn't find my waterproof mascara."

HIGHLIGHTS

Hero of the week: San Francisco quarterback Steve Young was 29-of-42 for 284 yards and three touchdowns in the 49ers' 28-3 win over New England. Young also ran a yard for another score.

Goat of the week: NFL official Jeff Rice played a critical role in the biggest play of the Oakland-Kansas City game. With the score tied at 17 in overtime and the Raiders at Kansas City's 28, umpire Rice collided with Oakland's Tim Brown, the intended receiver of quarterback Jeff Hostetler. With Brown taken out of the play, Hostetler's pass went directly to Chiefs cornerback James Hasty, who returned the ball 64 yards for a touchdown and a 23-17 victory. It was the Chiefs' 11th victory in their past 12 games with the Raiders, including eight in a row at Arrowhead Stadium.

Sub of the week: Buffalo's Phil Hansen, a longtime starter at defensive end, moved to nose tackle after Ted Washington suffered a sprained lower back and accounted for two of the Bills' five sacks in a 20-14 win over Indianapolis.

Comeback of the week: Trailing 17-6 entering the fourth quarter, Arizona scored 14 points to upend Detroit, 20-17. Greg Davis kicked four field goals for Arizona, but the game-winning points came on Dave Krieg's 24-yard touchdown pass to Anthony Edwards on fourth-and-10 with 2:31 left. The touchdown came nine plays after Terry Irving recovered a Barry Sanders fumble at the Cardinals' 31 with 5:06 left.

Blowout of the week: St. Louis' 31-10 win at Carolina wasn't as close as the score might indicate. The Rams forced seven turnovers—without committing one themselves—and converted four into points. The Panthers didn't score a touchdown until the last two minutes.

Nail-biter of the week: In a wild game in which the teams combined to score nine of the 10 times they got inside the 20, Denver beat Washington, 38-31, on a 43-yard touchdown pass from John Elway to rookie receiver Rod Smith as time expired. The Broncos drove 80 yards in eight plays in the final 67 seconds, with the final play coming on fourth down with six seconds left.

Hit of the week: By 49ers linebacker Ken Norton, who flattened Drew Bledsoe on a blitz in the opening quarter, injuring the New England quarterback's left (non-throwing) shoulder and rendering him ineffective for the rest of the game.

Oddity of the week: Sanders had carried the ball 803 times since December 6, 1992, without fumbling before doing so twice on consecutive carries in the final five minutes of the Lions' loss to Arizona.

Top rusher: Emmitt Smith carried 20 times for 150 yards and two touchdowns in Dallas' 23-17 overtime win at Minnesota.

Top passer: Jeff George was 27-of-39 for 386 yards and three touchdowns in Atlanta's 27-24 overtime win at New Orleans.

Top receiver: Eric Metcalf caught 11 passes for 155 yards for Atlanta.

Notes: Kansas City's Marcus Allen became only the fifth player in NFL history to surpass the 15,000-yard mark in total yards in the Chiefs' overtime win over Oakland. Allen, who began his career with the Raiders, joined Walter Payton, Tony Dorsett, Jim Brown and Eric Dickerson at the 15,000-yard plateau. . . . Buffalo's Jim Kelly surpassed the 30,000-yard mark in career NFL passing yardage in the Bills' win over Indianapolis. Kelly threw for 9,842 yards in two seasons in the old United States Football League before joining the Bills in 1986. . . . Dan Reeves was 0-3 for the first time in his 15-year coaching career following the Giants' 14-6 loss to Green Bay. The Giants were 0-3 in a non-strike season for the first time since 1979. . . . The expansion Carolina Panthers drew a crowd of 54,060 for their first home game, against the St. Louis Rams. That was 27,413 less than capacity at Clemson Memorial Stadium, which would serve as the Panthers' 1995 home until a new stadium was built in Charlotte for the '96 season. . . . Tampa Bay had its first September home sellout since 1982 for its game with Chicago. Alas, the Bucs lost, 25-6. . . . For the third straight game, Cincinnati gave up a touchdown on the opposing team's first possession. . . . Minnesota kicker Fuad Reveiz's NFL record for consecutive field goals ended at 31. . . . New England had six possessions inside San Francisco's 25 but did not score. . . . In his first NFL start, rookie wide receiver Chris Sanders became the first Houston Oiler in four seasons to have at least two catches of 35 yards in the same game. Sanders caught passes of 42 and 48 yards in Houston's 14-7 loss to Cleveland. . . . All-Pro linebacker Junior Seau scored the first touchdown of his NFL career when he returned a fumble 29 yards in San Diego's 27-21 comeback win at Philadelphia.

Quote of the week: Miami linebacker Bryan Cox, commenting on teammate Dan Marino, who was knocked woozy and forced out of the game by Pittsburgh linebacker Greg Lloyd (who had promised to knock Marino into next week): "I don't think he quite got knocked into next week, but I think he's at about Saturday right now."

Hero of the week: Detroit's Jason Hanson kicked a 32-yard field goal with 1:12 left, giving the Lions a 27-24 victory over San Francisco. Hanson also connected on field goals of 30, 38 and 18 yards. The game-winning kick gave the Lions their first win of the season.

Goat of the week: Washington's Gus Frerotte was intercepted in the end zone by Tampa Bay's Martin Mayhew with two seconds left in the Buccaneers' 14-6 victory. Working from the Buccaneers' 1, Frerotte missed an open Scott Galbraith near the goal line and instead threw toward Coleman Bell in the back of the end zone.

Sub of the week: Jacksonville wide receiver Willie Jackson, starting in place of injured Ernest Givins, caught seven passes for 66 yards and two touchdowns against Green Bay. Early in the fourth quarter, Jackson pulled in an 8-yard touchdown pass from quarterback Mark Brunell to cut the Packers' lead to 17-7. Green Bay scored another touchdown and Jackson added a 3-yard touchdown catch with 1:02 left as the Packers won, 24-14.

Comeback of the week: Philadelphia led Oakland, 17-0, after the first quarter. The Raiders scored 48 points over the next three quarters for a 48-17 victory. Oakland's defense had seven sacks, forced three fumbles, had two interceptions and scored two touchdowns—including a 6-yard fumble return by Austin Robbins that tied it at 17 at halftime.

Blowout of the week: Minnesota beat Pittsburgh, 44-24, as the Vikings capitilized on seven turnovers by the Steelers. Minnesota racked up 24 points in the third quarter, including touchdowns off a 12-yard fumble return by cornerback Corey Fuller and an interception by linebacker Jack Del Rio, who lateraled to safety Orlando Thomas for 45-yard interception return, giving the Vikings a 37-6 lead entering the fourth quarter.

Nail-biter of the week: Facing fourth-and-1 with 2:46 left, Lions quarterback Scott Mitchell ran for 2 yards and a first down at the 49ers' 15. Detroit running back Barry Sanders ran three plays for no gain and Hanson kicked a field goal to put the Lions ahead, 27-24. San Francisco took over at its 20 and quarterback Steve Young guided the 49ers to the Lions' 22, giving kicker Doug Brien a shot at tying the game. But Brien missed, hitting the right upright.

Hit of the week: By Chicago linebacker Vinson Smith, who hit St. Louis quarterback Chris Miller in the head, putting him out of the game with a concussion with 9:42 left and the Rams leading, 31-28. Mark Rypien replaced Miller, who had thrown three touchdown passes, and led the Rams to their final score—a 25-yard field goal by kicker Steve McLaughlin. The Rams won 34-28.

Oddity of the week: On consecutive passes in the fourth quarter, Kansas City quarterback Steve Bono threw interceptions for touchdowns, to Cleveland linebackers Gerald Dixon and Mike Caldwell. The picks were just 19 seconds apart and helped the Browns secure a 35-17 victory.

Top rusher: Rodney Hampton carried 33 times for 149 yards and four touchdowns in the Giants' victory over New Orleans.

Top passer: Jeff Blake was 24-of-46 for 356 yards and three touchdowns in Cincinnati's loss to Houston.

Top receiver: Jerry Rice caught 11 passes for 181 yards in San Francisco's loss to Detroit.

Notes: Minnesota's Warren Moon became the first pro quarterback to pass for more than 60,000 yards. Moon has thrown for 38,827 yards in the NFL and 21,228 yards in the CFL for a total of 60,055 career passing yards. . . . The Steelers' seven turnovers were their most since they had eight in a 51-0 loss to Cleveland in 1989. . . . Houston quarterback Chris Chandler was 23-of-26 for an .885 completion percentage, falling just short of Vinny Testaverde's NFL record of .913. . . . The Giants gained 474 yards against New Orleans, their best output since September 29, 1991, against the Dallas. . . . With their victory over Arizona, the Cowboys improved to 4-0 for the first time in 12 years. . . . The Vikings' Robert Smith ran the final 40 yards of a 58-yard touchdown run without his right shoe. . . . The Broncos failed to score a touchdown for the first time since a 24-0 loss to the Raiders on November 22, 1992. . . . For the 12th consecutive game, Packers quarterback Brett Favre threw at least two touchdown passes, which ties the NFL record for most consecutive games with at least two touchdown passes. Favre shares the record with Johnny Unitas, Dan Marino and Don Meredith. . . . The Saints' loss to the Giants dropped them to 0-4, their worst start since Jim Mora became coach in 1986.

Quote of the week: Eagles guard Guy McIntyre, on Philadelphia's 48-17 loss to Oakland after leading 17-0 in the first quarter: "It's a 60-minute thing. They had a bad 15 minutes and we had a bad 45."

HIGHLIGHTS

Hero of the week: Indianapolis running back Marshall Faulk ran for a career-high 177 yards and three touchdowns in a 21-18 win over St. Louis. Faulk had rushed for a total of 177 yards in the Colts' first three games.

Goat of the week: San Diego quarterback Stan Humphries was intercepted four times in a 31-16 loss at Pittsburgh. In less than a five-minute span, Willie Williams and Alvoid Mays each picked off a Humphries pass and returned it for a touchdown.

Sub of the week: Tampa Bay quarterback Casey Weldon was called on after Carolina knocked Trent Dilfer out of the game with a slight concussion. On the Buccaneers' game-winning drive, Weldon was 5-of-7 for 66 yards. His 1-yard touchdown plunge capped the drive and gave Tampa Bay a 20-13 victory.

Comeback of the week: It appeared Cincinnati coach Dave Shula was going to better his dad, Miami coach Don Shula. With 3:29 left, the Bengals led, 23-19, and the Dolphins had the ball on their 9. But Dan Marino drove Miami to the winning score, a 16-yard touchdown pass to O.J. McDuffie. It was the 30th fourth-quarter comeback of Marino's career.

Blowout of the week: Oakland quarterback Jeff Hostetler threw four touchdown passes in the Raiders' 47-10 pounding of the New York Jets. Jets cornerback Vance Joseph, who was making his first NFL start, was burned for two touchdowns in the final 2:30 of the first half. Raiders receiver Tim Brown, whom Joseph was covering for much of the game, had eight receptions for 156 yards and two touchdowns.

Nail-biter of the week: As time expired, Houston's Al Del Greco missed a 52-yard field goal as Jacksonville held on, 17-16, for the first victory in franchise history. Jacksonville took the lead with 1:03 left when wide receiver Desmond Howard caught a Mark Brunell screen pass and ran 15 yards for the game-winning touchdown.

Hit of the week: Trailing 16-10 with 2:27 remaining, Jacksonville's Jeff Lageman forced a fumble by Houston's Rodney Thomas. Darren Carrington recovered at the Oilers' 45 and the Jaguars drove for the winning score. It was Thomas' second lost fumble of the fourth quarter.

Oddity of the week: In the second quarter of a scoreless game, Kansas City fooled Arizona's defense by faking a handoff to Marcus Allen and running a quarterback bootleg on third-and-1. While the Cardinals' defense was tackling Allen, Steve Bono ran 76 yards untouched for a touchdown. It was the longest rushing touchdown by a quarterback in NFL history. There wasn't a Cardinal within 40 yards of Bono when he crossed the goal line.

Top rusher: Faulk, who averaged 9.3 yards a carry, had touchdown runs of 32, 33 and 1 yard to account for all of the Colts' touchdowns.

Top passer: Marino was 33-of-48 for 450 yards and two touchdowns.

Top receiver: St. Louis' Isaac Bruce started the game by catching a 72-yard pass from Chris Miller on the first play from scrimmage. Bruce finished with eight catches for 181 yards and two scores.

Notes: Gary Anderson kicked five field goals in the Eagles' 15-10 win at New Orleans, and Morten Andersen kicked five field goals in Atlanta's 30-7 victory over New England. . . . Seattle running back Chris Warren rushed for three touchdowns for the first time in his career. . . . Dallas quarterback Troy Aikman injured his right calf muscle on a first-quarter play in which he wasn't touched. Aikman didn't return and Washington upset the Cowboys, 27-23. . . . After missing an extra point and a 22-yard field-goal attempt, Buffalo's Steve Christie missed a 33-yard attempt with five seconds remaining in a tie game at Cleveland. But the Browns called timeout before the Bills got the play off and Christie made good on his second chance to give Buffalo a 22-19 win. . . . A week after rushing for 149 yards and four touchdowns, Giants running back Rodney Hampton gained 13 yards on 12 carries and broke his hand in New York's 20-6 loss at San Francisco. . . . . Cincinnati receiver Carl Pickens caught three touchdown passes, marking the 10th consecutive game in which he had at least one scoring catch.

Quote of the week: Chiefs coach Marty Schottenheimer, on the bootleg that resulted in a 76-yard touchdown run by Bono: "I told him before the play, 'Don't pull a hamstring running.' But as slow as he runs, there was no danger of that."

Hero of the week: Kansas City's Tamarick Vanover returned a punt 86 yards for a game-winning touchdown to beat San Diego, 29-23. It was the Chiefs' third overtime victory of the season.

Goat of the week: Houston linebacker Kanavis McGhee was penalized for roughing Minnesota's Warren Moon; the penalty negated cornerback Darryll Lewis' 78-yard interception return for a touchdown that would have given the Oilers a 13-10 lead. Two plays later, Moon threw a 17-yard touchdown pass to Cris Carter to give the Vikings a 17-6 edge. Minnesota went on to win, 23-17, when Robert Smith scored on a 20-yard run in overtime.

Sub of the week: Philadelphia running back Charlie Garner carried nine times for 120 yards, including touchdown runs of 55, 1 and 17 yards. Garner and starting running back Ricky Watters combined for 259 yards rushing in the Eagles' 37-34 overtime victory against Washington.

Comeback of the week: For the second time this season, Indianapolis trailed 24-3 but rallied for a 27-24 win in overtime over Miami. The Colts' Jim Harbaugh threw three second-half touchdown passes, including a 21-yard touchdown pass to Aaron Bailey with 1:09 left to tie it at 24. In overtime, Harbaugh completed all five of his passes to set up a 27-yard field goal by Cary Blanchard.

Blowout of the week: Quarterback John Elway improved his career record to 8-0 against New England as he led Denver to a 37-3 rout. Elway passed for 287 yards and two touchdowns as the Broncos posted their largest victory margin since they beat Phoenix 37-0 in 1989.

Nail-biter of the week: Carolina was on the verge of its first victory after Eric Guliford returned a punt 62 yards for a touchdown to give the Panthers a 27-24 lead over Chicago with 2:37 to go. But running back Robert Green scored on a 1-yard run with 38 seconds left to culminate a 60-yard drive and give the Bears the win.

Hit of the week: New York Jets tackle Everett McIver committed a false start, but a late whistle couldn't prevent Buffalo defensive end Bruce Smith from blindsiding quarterback Boomer Esiason, who was knocked unconscious. Esiason lay on the turf for nearly five minutes and didn't return to the lineup until Week 12.

Oddity of the week: An NFL-record five games went into overtime. Oddly, three of the games didn't end in field goals. Kansas City defeated San Diego on Vanover's punt return; Minnesota beat Houston on Robert Smith's touchdown run; and the Giants topped Arizona, 27-21, when linebacker Jessie Armstead intercepted a Dave Krieg pass and returned it 58 yards for a touchdown.

Top rusher: Oakland running back Harvey Williams gained a career-high 160 yards on 19 carries, including a 25-yard touchdown run. Williams also threw a 16-yard touchdown pass to tight end Andrew Glover.

Top passer: Oakland's Jeff Hostetler was 20-of-33 for 333 yards in the Raiders' 34-14 win over Seattle. Hostetler threw two touchdown passes, including an 80-yarder to Tim Brown, and no interceptions.

Top receiver: Pittsburgh's Yancey Thigpen caught six passes for 160 yards in the Steelers' 20-16 loss at Jacksonville.

Notes: The Patriots were held to a field goal for the third time this season. . . . The Jets, who have lost three games by at least 19 points, have been outscored 48-0 in the fourth quarter. . . . The Chiefs sent their game into overtime when quarterback Steve Bono threw an 18-yard touchdown pass to Derrick Walker with 15 seconds left. Bono drove the Chiefs 78 yards after taking over with 1:12 remaining and no timeouts. . . . Tampa Bay was in sole possesion of first place in the NFC Central for the first time since 1979. . . . The Raiders have won their past three games (against the Eagles, Jets and Seahawks) by a combined 129-41. . . . Seattle was 0-of-11 on third-down conversions against Oakland. . . . HIGHLIGHTS

Hero of the week: St. Louis receiver Isaac Bruce caught 10 passes for 191 yards and two touchdowns in the Rams' 21-19 victory over Atlanta. Bruce set up a touchdown when he fielded a one-bounce, cross-field lateral from punt returner Todd Kinchen and ran it 52 yards to the Falcons' 9.

Goat of the week: New York Giants quarterback Tommy Maddox was horrible after replacing an ineffective Dave Brown in a 17-14 loss to Philadelphia. Maddox was 6-of-23 for 49 yards. He was intercepted three times, including one by Michael Zordich at the Giants' 43 with less than a minute to play.

Sub of the week: Buffalo receiver Bill Brooks replaced an injured Andre Reed in the starting lineup; Brooks caught two touchdown passes and finished with six receptions for 109 yards in the Bills' 27-21 victory over Seattle.

Comeback of the week: Arizona quarterback Dave Krieg flipped a 1-yard touchdown pass to running back Garrison Hearst with 1:16 left to give the Cardinals a 24-20 victory over Washington. Hearst's touchdown capped a nine-play, 58-yard drive that took 5:28.

Blowout of the week: Denver, which had lost 11 of its past 12 games to the Raiders, dominated Oakland, 27-0. John Elway, who improved his career record to 7-15 against the Raiders, threw for 324 yards and two touchdowns. Oakland managed only 3 total yards in the third quarter and finished with 169 yards.

Nail-biter of the week: Tampa Bay won its fourth game in a row, the second-longest streak in team history, as Michael Husted kicked a 51-yard field goal in overtime to beat Minnesota, 20-17. In Week 6, Husted made a 53-yard field goal to beat Cincinnati. The Vikings had tied it at 17 on Fuad Reveiz's 23-yard field goal with 56 seconds left. Reveiz, though, missed a 53-yard attempt in overtime to keep the Buccaneers alive.

Hit of the week: On the first play from scrimmage, Arizona defensive tackle Eric Swann buried Washington running back Terry Allen for a 7-yard loss. That was just the beginning for Swann, who forced a fumble and finished with six tackles. He also had 1½ sacks, including one for an 18-yard loss, and hurried Redskins quarterback Gus Frerotte into an intentional grounding penalty on the last play of Arizona's 24-20 win. Swann had been out since he had knee surgery September 12.

Oddity of the week: Chicago receiver Curtis Conway made the most of his opportunities. In the Bears' 30-27 victory over Jacksonville, Conway caught four passes and three went for touchdowns.

Top rusher: In a 30-21 loss to Green Bay, Detroit running back Barry Sanders ran for 124 yards on 18 carries.

Top passer: Bernie Kosar did a good Dan Marino impersonation as he filled in for the injured Miami quarterback. Kosar was 29-of-42 for 368 yards and three touchdowns in a 33-30 loss at New Orleans.

Top receiver: Bruce dominated Atlanta rookie cornerback Ron Davis for his career-best performance in the Rams' victory over the Falcons.

Notes: Dallas running back Emmitt Smith's two touchdowns gave him a team-record 88 for his career. Tony Dorsett held the mark with 86. . . . Chicago won its 600th game in franchise history. The Bears lead the NFL in victories. . . . The highlight of Carolina's first franchise win was linebacker Sam Mills picking off a shovel pass by Jets quarterback Bubby Brister and returning it 36 yards for a touchdown. That gave the Panthers the lead for good with 13 seconds remaining in the first half. . . . Through their first seven games, the Jets had no rushing touchdowns. . . . The Colts entered the week with three sacks but managed to get to San Francisco quarterback Steve Young six times. . . . In the first half of its 30-21 loss to Green Bay, Detroit was shut out and held to 69 total yards. In the second half, the Lions had 21 points and 265 total yards.

Quote of the week: San Diego quarterback Gale Gilbert, who started for the injured Stan Humphries, on his play after he was sacked six times and turned over the ball on the Chargers' first four drives: "After the three interceptions, I think everything went smoothly after that."

Hero of the week: Cincinnati's Jeff Blake was terrific in the Bengals' 27-9 thrashing of Pittsburgh. Blake was 18-of-22 for 275 yards and three touchdowns (without an interception) and also ran the ball four times for 32 yards.

Goat of the week: Miami quarterback Bernie Kosar was awful in the Dolphins' 17-16 loss to the New York Jets. Subbing for the injured Dan Marino, Kosar accounted for all four Miami turnovers, including three in the final six minutes as the Dolphins, who had beaten the Jets by 38 points in Week 1, couldn't avoid their third consecutive loss.

Sub of the week: Oakland quarterback Vince Evans, subbing for the injured Jeff Hostetler, was 23-of-35 for a career-high 335 yards and two touchdowns in the Raiders' 30-17 win over Indianapolis. It was the first 300-yard passing game in 12 years for the 40-year-old Evans, the NFL's oldest player.

Comeback of the week: Washington forced overtime against Detroit by driving 58 yards in eight plays to set up a 39-yard field goal by Eddie Murray with four seconds left. The Redskins won the game, 36-30, when Darrell Green returned a Scott Mitchell pass 7 yards for a touchdown 3:41 into the extra period.

Blowout of the week: San Francisco crushed St. Louis, 44-10, in a game that was over almost before it began. Elvis Grbac, making his first NFL start, threw a 35-yard touchdown pass to John Taylor on the 49ers' first play from scrimmage. San Francisco increased its lead to 14-0 a minute and a half later when Ken Norton returned a Chris Miller interception 21 yards for a score. Norton had another return for a touchdown later in the game.

Nail-biter of the week: The Jets' one-point win over Miami wasn't sealed until Victor Green picked off a wobbly Kosar pass at the Jets' 35 with 1:11 left.

Hit of the week: By Jacksonville defensive end Jeff Lageman, who secured the Jaguars' 23-15 victory over Cleveland by sacking Vinny Testaverde and forcing a fumble near midfield with 4:27 left. Bryan Schwartz recovered for Jacksonville to set up a 31-yard field goal by Mike Hollis with 1:10 left.

Oddity of the week: Former Rams kicker Tony Zendejas played against his former team for the second consecutive game. Zendejas kicked two field goals for Atlanta in a 21-19 loss to the Rams on October 12. After being waived by the Falcons, Zendejas was picked up by the 49ers and kicked another field goal against the Rams on October 22.

Top rusher: Curtis Martin rushed 36 times for 127 yards and one touchdown in New England's 27-14 victory over Buffalo.

Top passer: Neil O'Donnell was 30-of-52 for 359 yards and one touchdown in Pittsburgh's loss to Cincinnati.

Top receiver: Isaac Bruce caught nine passes for 173 yards in St. Louis' loss to San Francisco.

Notes: Washington's victory over Detroit was the Redskins' 17th consecutive against the Lions, the longest current winning streak in the NFL. Detroit last beat Washington in 1965. . . . Chicago scored 30 points for the third consecutive game for the first time in 30 years. . . . Marcus Allen became the fourth player (after Walter Payton, Jim Brown and John Riggins) with 100 NFL rushing touchdowns. Allen, with 121 yards on 21 carries, also became the first Chiefs running back to gain 100 yards in Denver since Ed Podolak in 1974. . . . Minnesota's 38 points allowed against Green Bay was the most allowed by the Vikings since 1984. . . . Washington's Henry Ellard caught six passes against Detroit to boost his career total to 701. He became the sixth NFL player to reach that plateau, joining Art Monk, Jerry Rice, Steve Largent, James Lofton and Charlie Joiner. . . . The Patriots hosted a Monday night game for the first time since 1981.

Quote of the week: Seattle center Jim Sweeney, after the Chargers sacked the Seahawks' Rick Mirer seven times in a 35-25 San Diego win: "Their defense had a pretty good day in our backfield."

Hero of the week: Philadelphia defensive end William Fuller had two sacks and forced two fumbles in the Eagles' 20-9 win over St. Louis. Fuller, who missed the previous three games with a hamstring injury, separated Rams quarterback Chris Miller from the ball midway through the fourth quarter and teammate Kevin Johnson returned it 37 yards for the Eagles' final score.

Goat of the week: New England punter Pat O'Neill, who averaged 32 yards on eight kicks in the Patriots' 20-17 overtime loss to Carolina. O'Neill's final punt, from his end zone, was returned 9 yards by Eric Guliford to the New England 32, leading to the Panthers' game-winning field goal four plays later. Carolina's first 17 points came on drives that began at the Patriots' 41-, 49- and 47-yard lines, thanks to O'Neill's poor punts.

Sub of the week: Cleveland rookie Eric Zeier, subbing for an ineffective Vinny Testaverde and making his first NFL start, was 26-of-46 for 310 yards and one touchdown in a 29-26 victory over Cincinnati.

Comeback of the week: Dallas rebounded from a 10-0 deficit early in the second period to defeat Atlanta, 28-13. Troy Aikman threw two touchdown passes and Emmitt Smith rushed for 167 yards as the Cowboys scored four of the seven times they had the ball.

Blowout of the week: Pittsburgh recorded a season-high seven sacks in downing Jacksonville, 24-7. The Steelers scored touchdowns the first three times they moved inside the Jaguars' 20 after going 0-for-10 inside the 20 in their previous six quarters. The Jaguars were 2-of-14 on third-down conversions.

Nail-biter of the week: The Browns defeated Bengals thanks to a 28-yard field goal by Matt Stover at 6:30 of overtime. Cleveland blew a 10-point lead in the final 2:51 of regulation.

Hit of the week: By Detroit linebacker Tracy Scroggins, who sacked Green Bay's Brett Favre after the Packers, trailing by eight points, had moved to the Lions' 5 with less than three minutes left. Favre fumbled on the play and Chris Spielman recovered for Detroit, which ran out the clock for a 24-16 victory.

Oddity of the week: Halfway through the season, New Orleans fullbacks had produced zero net yards rushing.

Top rushers: Detroit's Barry Sanders (on 22 carries) and Dallas' Smith (26) each rushed for 167 yards in victories.

Top passer: Gus Frerotte was 22-of-44 for 345 yards in Washington's 24-15 loss to the New York Giants.

Top receiver: Andre Rison caught seven passes for 173 yards and a touchdown in Cleveland's victory at Cincinnati.

Notes: Jerry Rice caught eight passes for 108 yards against New Orleans to become the NFL's career leader in receiving yardage. It took Rice (14,140 yards) 164 games to break a record it took James Lofton (14,004 yards) 232 games to set. . . . Jets kicker Nick Lowery (1,603) joined George Blanda (2,002) and Jan Stenerud (1,699) as the only players to score 1,600 career points. . . . The Bills failed to produce a first down on eight of their 11 possessions in a 23-6 loss at Miami. . . . After losing four of their previous five games, the Steelers had new starters at nine of 22 positions against Jacksonville. . . . Eugene Daniel returned an interception a franchise-record 97 yards in the Colts' 17-10 win over the Jets. . . . The Colts' 114 total yards were their fewest ever in a winning effort. Before Week 9, they were 0-17 in games in which they had been limited to 140 yards. . . . Deion Sanders made his Dallas debut after signing a $35 million contract. He had two passes thrown his way at cornerback and was involved in four plays as a wide receiver. . . . Barry Sanders (9,510 yards) passed Earl Campbell (9,407) for 11th place on the NFL's career rushing list. . . . Carolina's third consecutive victory set a record for an NFL expansion team. . . . Pete Stoyanovich kicked three field goals to supplant Garo Yepremian as Miami's career field goal leader. . . . William Floyd and Brent Jones suffered severe knee injuries in San Francisco's 11-7 loss to New Orleans, a stunning game in which the 1-6 Saints held the 5-2 49ers to just 55 yards rushing and forced three turnovers. It broke a string of nine consecutive NFC West victories by the 49ers. . . . Chicago snapped an eight-game losing streak on Monday night with a 14-6 win at Minnesota.

Quote of the week: Cardinals kicker Greg Davis, on an ugly Arizona-Seattle game that included 11 turnovers, 22 penalties and two blocked field goals: "On a scale of 1 to 10, this game was a minus-5."

Hero of the week: Carolina cornerback Tim McKyer returned an interception 96 yards for a touchdown as the Panthers upset the 49ers, 13-7. With Carolina leading 3-0 in the first quarter, San Francisco moved inside the Panthers' 7, where 49ers quarterback Elvis Grbac attempted to throw a pass out of bounds but was picked off by McKyer, who ran it back for the score and a 10-0 lead.

Goat of the week: Green Bay's T.J. Rubley threw a fourth-quarter interception that led to the Vikings' game-winning field goal. With 50 seconds left and the game tied at 24, the Packers called a running play on third-and-1 from Minnesota's 38. Rubley audibled and attempted a pass that was tipped and picked off by linebacker Jeff Brady. The Vikings moved the ball into field-goal range, and kicker Fuad Reveiz hit a 39-yarder with no time left for a 27-24 victory.

Sub of the week: In addition to his first NFL interception, Brady recorded his first NFL sack and forced fumble, made four tackles and forced Packers quarterback Ty Detmer out of the game. Subbing for the injured Jack Del Rio, Brady knocked Detmer down in the fourth quarter as he was throwing and the pass was intercepted by Vikings defensive end Roy Barker. Detmer tore ligaments in his right thumb on the play and left the game.

Comeback of the week: Pittsburgh beat Chicago, 37-34, on Norm Johnson's 24-yard field goal in overtime. The Steelers trailed, 34-27, with 1:06 left when quarterback Neil O'Donnell connected with wide receiver Ernie Mills on a 10-yard touchdown pass on fourth down, sending the game into overtime. O'Donnell converted three third downs on the drive, including a third-and-11 pass to Mills, to help set up the game-winning field goal.

Blowout of the week: Denver thrashed Arizona, 38-6, as John Elway threw three touchdown passes and rookie Terrell Davis ran for 135 yards and one touchdown on 22 carries. The Broncos scored on their first four possessions for a 24-6 halftime lead. On defense, Denver did not allow a touchdown and held the Cardinals to 74 rushing yards.

Nail-biter of the week: Seattle stormed out to a 21-3 lead over the Giants after the first quarter, but the Giants scored 19 points in the second quarter to take a 22-21 halftime lead. Seattle's Todd Peterson hit a 23-yard field goal in the third quarter and added a 41-yarder in the fourth to put the Seahawks up, 27-22. With 8:15 left, the Giants scored on a 1-yard run by Rodney Hampton to take a 28-27 lead. Peterson connected on a 32-yard field goal with 1:27 left to put Seattle up, 30-28. On the ensuing drive, the Giants moved the ball into field-goal range. But kicker Brad Daluiso missed a 48-yard attempt as time ran out, preserving the Seahawks' victory.

Hit of the week: By Buffalo nose tackle Ted Washington, who stopped Marshall Faulk on fourth-and-1 from the Bills' 2. Buffalo led, 16-10, late in the third quarter when Washington grabbed Faulk by the ankle as he tried for the first down, tackling him for a 2-yard loss.

Oddity of the week: Cleveland owner Art Modell, amid rumors that he was moving the Browns to Baltimore, missed his first home game in 35 years as Houston hammered the Browns, 37-10.

Top rusher: Curtis Martin carried 34 times for 170 yards and two touchdowns in New England's 20-7 victory over the Jets.

Top passer: Jeff George was 31-of-40 for 362 yards and one touchdown in the Falcons' 34-22 victory over Detroit.

Top receiver: Herman Moore caught nine passes for 176 yards in the Lions' loss to Atlanta.

Notes: Elway and Warren Moon joined Fran Tarkenton, Dan Marino, Dan Fouts, Joe Montana and Johnny Unitas as NFL quarterbacks to pass for more than 40,000 yards. . . . Andre Rison's 4-yard touchdown catch against Houston was his 500th career reception (in 105 games). . . . Miami's 24-14 victory at San Diego was the Dolphins' first win in San Diego since 1978. . . .

Broncos running back Terrell Davis rushed for 135 yards, the most by a Denver running back at Mile High Stadium in 21 years. . . . By beating the 49ers, 13-7, Carolina became the first expansion team to win four games in their first season and defeat a defending Super Bowl champion. . . . With their 24-3 victory over Washington, the Chiefs have won 26 consecutive games in which they have rushed the ball at least 30 times. . . . Michael Irvin tied Charley Hennigan and Billy Groman for most consecutive 100-yard receiving games with seven in the Cowboys' 34-12 victory over Philadelphia. . . . The Packers lost their 10th consecutive game on artificial turf. . . . Mario Bates, who rushed for 106 yards against the Rams, became the first Saints running back to rush for 100 yards in back-to-back games since Craig Heyward in 1990. . . . O'Donnell completed a Steelers-record 34 passes in 52 attempts against the Bears. . . . Kansas City's Marcus Allen scored his 101st career rushing touchdown on a 1-yard run against Washington. . . . Atlanta's 6-3 start is its best since 1980.

Quote of the week: Arizona coach Buddy Ryan on the Cardinals' 38-6 loss to Denver: "It was an old-fashioned butt-kicking, and we gave them the butts to kick."

Hero of the week: Green Bay quarterback Brett Favre was 25-of-33 for 336 yards and five touchdowns in the Packers' 35-28 victory over Chicago. Favre, playing on a sore left ankle that kept him out of practice and on crutches during the week, tied a Packers' single-game record with touchdown passes of 2, 16, 17, 29 and 44 yards. Favre started his 55th consecutive game, the longest current streak among quarterbacks.

Goat of the week: Colts kicker Cary Blanchard missed a 41-yard field-goal attempt with 13 seconds left that would have tied the game against New Orleans. Blanchard, who was cut by the Saints in the preseason, had made all nine of his field-goal attempts entering the game. But he failed to connect on both a 45-yarder and the game-tying attempt, which sailed wide left.

Sub of the week: Buffalo rookie Darick Holmes replaced an injured Thurman Thomas in the third quarter against the Falcons and rushed 23 times for 100 yards. After Thomas left because of a neck injury, Holmes picked up the slack and gained 33 yards on a 14-play, 66-yard drive that ended with a 21-yard field goal by Steve Christie, helping give Buffalo a 23-17 victory.

Comeback of the week: Oakland beat the New York Giants, 17-13, with the help of an unnecessary roughness penalty late in the game. The Raiders trailed, 13-10, in the fourth quarter when quarterback Jeff Hostetler moved Oakland downfield with passes of 17 yards to Daryl Hobbs and 14 yards to Tim Brown. Later on the drive—on a third-and-6 play—Hostetler slid at the Giants' 15-yard line, short of the first down. But as Giants cornerback Phillippi Sparks went by Hostetler, he glanced the quarterback's helmet. Sparks was flagged for unnecessary roughness, giving the Raiders a first-and-goal at the 8. Oakland scored the go-ahead touchdown on a 6-yard run by Harvey Williams.

Blowout of the week: San Francisco beat Dallas, 38-20, in a game that was supposed to be a blowout—by the Cowboys. On the second play of the game, quarterback Elvis Grbac hit Jerry Rice on a slant route for an 81-yard touchdown. Just 13 seconds later, safety Merton Hanks returned a Michael Irvin fumble 36 yards for a touchdown and a 14-0 lead. On Dallas' next possession, Troy Aikman was intercepted by linebacker Rickey Jackson, leading to a field goal and a 17-0 score. Later in the half, Aikman left because of a bruised knee and the 49ers added two more touchdowns to take a 31-7 halftime lead.

Nail-biter of the week: The Packers trailed the Bears, 28-21, in the third quarter before Favre hooked up with Robert Brooks on a 44-yard touchdown pass to tie it. On the ensuing drive, the Bears failed to convert on fourth-and-6 at the Packers' 31. Green Bay took over and Favre finished off the drive tossed a 16-yard touchdown pass to Edgar Bennett. The Bears then moved to the Packers' 22 with two minutes left, but on fourth-and-2, quarterback Erik Kramer threw an interception in the end zone. Chicago got the ball back with 1:13 left at their 36 and drove to the Packers' 14. But Kramer threw three incompletions in the end zone as Green Bay held on, 35-28.

Hit of the week: By Eagles defensive ends William Fuller and Mike Mamula, who sandwiched Denver quarterback John Elway in Philadelphia's 31-13 victory. On the first play of the second quarter, Elway dropped back to pass and Fuller knocked him toward Mamula. Mamula's helmet smacked Elway's helmet and the quarterback went to the sidelines with a concussion.

Oddity of the week: Pittsburgh rookie Kordell Stewart was an offensive triple threat in the Steelers' 20-3 victory over Cleveland. In the second quarter, quarterback Neil O'Donnell completed an 11-yard, third-down pass to Stewart for a first down. Later on that drive, Stewart replaced O'Donnell for a play. Stewart was flushed out of the pocket toward the right sideline and scrambled back to his left—running almost back to the left sideline—before lobbing a 2-yard touchdown pass to wide receiver Ernie Mills for a 7-0 lead. In addition to the touchdown—his only pass of the game—Stewart rushed twice for 13 yards and caught two passes for 21 yards.

Top rusher: Errict Rhett carried 25 times for 144 yards in the Buccaneers' loss to Detroit.

Top passer: Warren Moon was 24-of-43 for 342 yards and four touchdowns in the Vikings' victory over Arizona.

Top receiver: Jerry Rice caught five passes for 161 yards and one touchdown in San Francisco's victory over Dallas.

Notes: Miami quarterback Dan Marino broke Fran Tarkenton's NFL record for passing yards with 47,299 yards in 13 seasons; Tarkenton threw for 47,003 in 18 seasons. . . . The Rams played their first game in the Trans World Dome and established an attendance record for a St. Louis sports event (65,598). . . . Herman Moore became the first Lion with back-to-back 1,000-yard receiving seasons since Terry Barr in 1963 and '64. . . . The Seahawks scored 47 points against Jacksonville, their highest point total since 1985. . . .The Bengals won in Houston for the first time since 1984. . . . The Chiefs swept their season series with the Chargers for the fifth time in the '90s. . . . Moon moved ahead of Johnny Unitas into fifth place in NFL passing yards with 40,398 yards. . . . Rams offensive tackle Jackie Slater, after missing the first nine games with an injury, saw action in his 20th season. Slater has played in 259 games, third-most in NFL history. . . . Dallas' Michael Irvin was held to 37 yards by the 49ers, ending his bid for a record-setting eighth straight 100-yard receiving game.

Quote of the week: Buffalo's Marv Levy, who returned to coaching after four weeks off to undergo cancer treatment: "Today, I had to make decisions about whether we should go for it or not. At home, I had to make a decision between potato chips and popcorn."

Hero of the week: Atlanta receiver Terence Mathis caught 10 passes for 184 yards and three touchdowns in the Falcons' 31-6 rout of St. Louis. Normally a slot receiver, Mathis lined up on the outside for the first time all season and caught scoring passes of 18, 17 and 39 yards.

Goat of the week: New England tight end Ben Coates had two costly fumbles in the Patriots' 24-10 loss to Indianapolis. Although he caught nine passes, Coates' fumbles at the end of lengthy gains to the Colts' 46- and 30-yard lines ended possible scoring drives.

Sub of the week: Detroit quarterback Don Majkowski entered the game after Scott Mitchell sprained his ankle late in the first half and was 15-of-19 for 161 yards—including an 11-yard touchdown pass to Herman Moore with 2:32 left—to rally the Lions to a 24-17 victory over Chicago.

Comeback of the week: In the second-biggest comeback in team history, Pittsburgh rallied from a 31-13 deficit early in the third quarter to beat Cincinnati, 49-31. The Steelers scored touchdowns on five consecutive possessions in the final 22 minutes, taking the lead for good on a 71-yard pass from Neil O'Donnell to rookie Kordell Stewart early in the fourth quarter.

Blowout of the week: Minnesota upended New Orleans, 43-24, in a game more lopsided than the score. The Vikings scored the first seven times they had the ball and never punted, and Warren Moon was 25-of-32 for 338 yards and four touchdowns in less than three quarters.

Nail-biter of the week: Tampa Bay nipped Jacksonville, 17-16, when the Jaguars unsuccessfully attempted a two-point conversion with 37 seconds left. Jacksonville coach Tom Coughlin eschewed the conventional wisdom of kicking the extra point after Steve Beuerlein threw a 12-yard touchdown pass to Pete Mitchell. Beuerlein's pass on the two-point attempt was caught by Jimmy Smith, but his feet were out of bounds.

Hit of the week: By Kansas City defensive back Doug Terry, whose hit on Houston's Todd McNair caused a fumble that Mark Collins returned 34 yards for the game-winning touchdown with 15 seconds left. The Chiefs won, 20-13.

Oddity of the week: Coates had lost only two fumbles in his first four NFL seasons before losing two against the Colts.

Top rusher: Rookie Terrell Davis carried 30 times for 176 yards and one touchdown in Denver's 30-27 win over San Diego.

Top passer: Elvis Grbac was 31-of-41 for 382 yards and four touchdowns in San Francisco's 44-20 victory over Miami.

Top receiver: Terence Mathis caught 10 passes for 184 yards and three touchdowns in Atlanta's victory over St. Louis.

Notes: Dan Marino threw two touchdown passes against San Francisco to tie Fran Tarkenton's NFL record for career TD passes (342). . . . The Cardinals were held to 96 yards of total offense—their lowest total in 40 years—in a 27-7 loss to Carolina. They never penetrated the Panthers' 32-yard line, and their only touchdown came on a 72-yard blocked field-goal return by Aeneas Williams. . . . Brett Favre accounted for four touchdowns (three passing, one rushing) in Green Bay's 31-20 win at Cleveland. The Browns were playing their first home game since owner Art Modell announced his intention of moving the team to Baltimore for the 1996 season. . . . Davis accounted for all of Denver's rushing yardage against San Diego, including 53 yards on six carries on the Broncos' final drive, which ended with Jason Elam's 32-yard field goal with two seconds left. It marked the first time in John Elway's career that he led a game-winning drive without throwing a pass. . . . Warren Moon (40,736) passed Joe Montana (40,551) for third place on the NFL's career passing list. . . . Barry Sanders joined Eric Dickerson as the only NFL running backs to gain at least 1,000 yards in each of their first seven seasons. . . . After a 28-19 loss to Philadelphia, the Giants were 0-7 against teams with winning records.

Quote of the week: Miami linebacker Bryan Cox, after the Dolphins lost to San Francisco: "They showed the heart and character of a champion. We showed the heart and character of chumps."

Hero of the week: A natural would be Miami's Dan Marino, who became the NFL's career leader in touchdown passes (343) when he hit Keith Byars with a 6-yard strike in the second quarter of the Dolphins' game against Indianapolis. Although Marino tossed three more touchdown passes against the Colts, Indianapolis quarterback Jim Harbaugh wore the hero's cape. For the second time this season, he led Indy past Miami. Harbaugh threw for three scores and ran 1 yard for another as the Colts, ahead 24-6 at halftime, held on for a 36-28 victory.

Goat of the week: Jacksonville safety Travis Davis. With the Jaguars guarding a 13-10 lead late in the game, Davis was called for interference at his team's 19 on a third-and-15 Bengals play that originated at Cincinnati's 47. Four plays later, Bengals quarterback Jeff Blake hit wide receiver Carl Pickens with a game-deciding 5-yard touchdown pass.

Sub of the week: Philadelphia quarterback Rodney Peete actually started the Eagles' game against Washington but was benched in the third quarter. Steamed over his removal, which came with Philadelphia nursing a 6-0 lead, Peete re-entered the game after Randall Cunningham directed two three-plays-and-out series. By this time, the Redskins had seized a 7-6 lead. With Peete completing all three of his passes (for 53 yards) on a 75-yard fourth-quarter scoring drive, the Eagles rebounded for a 14-7 victory.

Comeback of the week: New England, down 25-13 entering the fourth quarter at Buffalo, broke loose for 22 points—15 in the final 1:23—and stunned the Bills, 35-25. Drew Bledsoe threw two final-period touchdown passes to Ben Coates and connected with Coates for three touchdowns overall.

Blowout of the week: San Francisco demolished the Rams, 41-13. St. Louis, which started the season 4-0, saw its record drop to 6-6.

Nail-biters of the week: Cincinnati's 17-13 triumph over Jacksonville, with the winning touchdown coming with 17 seconds left; the Bears' 27-24 victory over the Giants, attained by Kevin Butler's field goal with 7 seconds remaining; and the Cardinals' 40-37 overtime win against Atlanta.

Hit of the week: Keith Traylor's hit on Emmitt Smith when the Dallas running back had his foot planted in the Thanksgiving Day game against the Chiefs. The injury appeared to be serious, and Smith was helped off the field. But tests later showed only a mild sprain of the medial collateral ligament. The Chiefs (10-1) and Cowboys (9-2) entered the game with the NFL's best records; at day's end, they shared the top mark as Dallas rolled, 24-12.

Oddity of the week: A Jets running back gained 100 yards. Adrian Murrell accomplished the feat against the Seahawks, rushing for 116 yards on 24 carries. It was the first 100-yard rushing performance by a Jet in more than a year.

Top rusher: Rookie Curtis Martin rumbled for 148 yards on 27 carries in the Patriots' triumph. It was Martin's fifth 100-yard game of the season, with all such performances coming in New England victories.

Top passer: Arizona's Dave Krieg threw for 413 yards and four touchdowns as Arizona beat Atlanta in overtime. Arizona entered the week as the lowest-scoring team in the league.

Top receiver: Detroit's Brett Perriman had 12 receptions for 153 yards and two touchdowns in the Lions' Thanksgiving Day triumph over Minnesota. Detroit's Herman Moore (127) and Johnnie Morton (102) also had more than 100 receiving yards.

Notes: Scott Mitchell was 30-of-45 for a Lions-record 410 yards in the victory over Minnesota. . . . Cincinnati's Pickens, on the way to a 99-reception season, hadn't caught a pass all day against Jacksonville until latching on to two (including the game-winner) in the final 24 seconds. . . . The Giants' loss assured Dan Reeves of only his third losing season in 15 years as an NFL coach. . . . The Falcons' Morten Andersen saw his string of 92 consecutive extra-point kicks end when Arizona's Clyde Simmons blocked a PAT attempt. . . . Tampa Bay's Errict Rhett, the NFC's No. 3 rusher, managed minus-1 yard on 13 carries against Green Bay. . . . Bucs quarterback Trent Dilfer was held without a touchdown pass for the eighth game in a row. . . . Cincinnati's Blake extended his touchdown-pass streak to 19 games.

Quote of the week Peete on rallying the Eagles past the Redskins: "We've been successful when I've played. We've won football games. I'm disappointed in the decision that was made (when Coach Ray Rhodes removed him against Washington). I'll be the first to admit that I wasn't playing well, but we were still up 6-0. It would have been different if we were a 3-8 team (instead of 7-4), but we're making a playoff run."

Hero of the week: San Francisco linebacker Lee Woodall had 10 tackles, one sack and two fumble recoveries in the 49ers' 27-17 victory over Buffalo. He returned one fumble 96 yards for a touchdown after the Bills appeared set to take the lead by driving to the 49ers' 1 in the third quarter of a 10-10 game.

Goat of the week: New England linebacker Willie McGinest made critical errors on consecutive plays resulting in touchdowns in the Patriots' 31-17 loss to New Orleans. On the first, McGinest failed to pick up fullback Lorenzo Neal coming out of the backfield, enabling Neal to turn a short dump-off pass from Jim Everett into a 69-yard touchdown. On the second, McGinest allowed Mario Bates to get around right end, and Bates turned what should have been a short gain into a 66-yard touchdown gallop.

Sub of the week: San Diego running back Aaron Hayden, subbing for injured starter Natrone Means, rushed 32 times for 127 yards and two touchdowns in the Chargers' 31-13 romp over Cleveland. Hayden, a rookie from Tennessee, was making his first NFL start.

Comeback of the week: Miami scored two touchdowns in the final eight minutes to erase a 20-9 deficit and beat Atlanta, 21-20. The Falcons owned a 20-15 lead with 2:27 left and had second-and-1 at Miami's 27. Three running plays later, the Falcons still were a half-yard short, and the Dolphins proceeded to drive 72 yards in eight plays for the game-winning points, a 21-yard touchdown pass from Dan Marino to Irving Fryar with 11 seconds left.

Blowout of the week: Minnesota's 31-17 victory over Tampa Bay was close only on the scoreboard. The Vikings amassed a 351-83 edge in total yards in the first half and had a three-touchdown lead, with eight plays of 17 yards or longer. Defensively, the Vikes recorded eight sacks.

Nail-biter of the week: Despite four touchdown passes by John Elway, Denver's 31-23 victory over Jacksonville remained in doubt until Broncos linebacker Glenn Cadrez sacked Jaguars quarterback Steve Beuerlein on consecutive plays with five minutes left to preserve the victory.

Hit of the week: Woodall's 96-yard touchdown return against Buffalo was set up by fellow linebacker Gary Plummer, who hit and forced a fumble by rookie Darick Holmes after the Bills had driven to San Francisco's 1.

Oddity of the week: Dallas had allowed just two 100-yard rushing performances in its past 26 games—both by Washington's Terry Allen.

Top rusher: Hayden's 127-yard performance against Cleveland came in only his fourth pro game.

Top passer: Marino was 35-of-50 for 343 yards and two touchdowns in Miami's victory over Atlanta.

Top receiver: Detroit's Herman Moore caught a team-record 14 passes for a career-high 183 yards in a 27-7 win over Chicago.

Notes: Kansas City's Marcus Allen caught three passes for 33 yards against Oakland to become the first player in NFL history to have more than 10,000 rushing yards and 5,000 receiving yards in a career. . . . Washington's 24-17 win at Dallas gave the Redskins their first season sweep of the Cowboys since 1987. It also marked the first time since 1990 that Dallas had been swept by a division opponent. . . . Marino's 343-yard effort against Atlanta was the 52nd 300-yard passing performance of his career, breaking an NFL record he had shared with Dan Fouts. . . . Falcons kicker Morten Andersen set a league record by scoring in his 187th consecutive game, breaking the mark of 186 set by Jim Breech in 1982. . . . New Orleans scored three touchdowns of at least 50 yards against New England. . . . Dallas' Michael Irvin had his 11th consecutive 100-yard receiving game. . . . Kansas City and Pittsburgh clinched division titles in Week 14. Steelers coach Bill Cowher, a protege of Chiefs coach Marty Schottenheimer, became the fourth coach to make the playoffs in each of his first four NFL seasons. . . . Green Bay was alone atop the NFC Central in December for the first time since 1972. That year also marked the last time the Packers were five games over .500. . . . Denver rookie Terrell Davis, the 196th player chosen in the 1995 draft, became the lowest-drafted player to rush for 1,000 yards in a season. Don Woods, picked 134th by Green Bay in 1974, gained 1,162 yards that season for San Diego after being cut by the Packers. . . . The Colts allowed only four plays of more than 5 yards in a 13-10 loss to Carolina. . . . Green Bay's Brett Favre threw three touchdown passes against Cincinnati to reach the 100-touchdown plateau in 62 games, the third-fastest of any NFL quarterback, behind Marino's 44 games and Johnny Unitas' 53.

Quote of the week: Marcus Allen, on his teammates' reaction after the game was stopped when he caught the pass that put him over the 10,000/5,000 plateau: "Most of them didn't know what it was about. They were asking what it was about and I said I didn't know—but I really did know."

Hero of the week: Detroit linebacker Mike Johnson intercepted two passes and made six tackles in the Lions' 24-17 victory at Houston. Both interceptions came inside Detroit's 5, and the second one preserved a fourth-quarter lead.

Goat of the week: Denver quarterback John Elway committed four turnovers (three on interceptions) in the Broncos' 31-27 loss to Seattle. Three of the turnovers came inside the Seahawks' 20, killing Denver drives and giving momentum to Seattle, which rallied from deficits of 20-0 and 27-17.

Sub of the week: John Friesz entered after starting quarterback Rick Mirer was injured late in the first half and rallied the Seahawks to victory over Denver. Friesz led the Seahawks to touchdowns on their first three possessions of the fourth quarter, including scoring passes to Joey Galloway and Chris Warren in the final 4:10.

Comeback of the week: Philadelphia rallied from a 17-3 deficit late in the second quarter to upset Dallas, 20-17. The pivotal moment came when the Cowboys failed to get a first down on two tries from their 29 in the last two minutes with the score tied at 17. Emmitt Smith was stopped cold by a host of Eagles defenders on fourth down, but the officials ruled that the play clock had reached the two-minute warning and the Cowboys were allowed to try again. Smith was stopped a second time, and Gary Anderson kicked what proved to be the game-winning field goal for the Eagles four plays later.

Blowout of the week: San Francisco avenged a 13-7 loss to Carolina five weeks earlier by whipping the Panthers, 31-10. Steve Young was 31-of-45 for 336 yards and two touchdowns and ran for another score.

Nail-biter of the week: The Giants scored the go-ahead touchdown with 1:12 left and held on to defeat Washington, 20-13. Dave Brown's 40-yard touchdown pass to Chris Calloway gave New York the lead, but the Giants didn't clinch the win until Thomas Randolph batted down a Heath Shuler pass intended for Henry Ellard at New York's 2 in the waning moments.

Hit(s) of the week: The Cowboys' failure to pick up the first down late in the Philadelphia game resulted in a week of grief for Coach Barry Switzer, who was second-guessed by armchair quarterbacks everywhere.

Oddity of the week: From 1966-81, the Raiders never lost more than two consecutive home games while playing at the Oakland Coliseum. That streak ended in their first season back in Oakland. The Raiders' 29-10 loss to Pittsburgh in Week 15 followed earlier home losses to Dallas and Kansas City.

Top rusher: Curtis Martin ran 31 times for 148 yards and two touchdowns in New England's 31-28 victory over the Jets.

Top passer: Mark Rypien was 31-of-55 passes for 372 yards and two touchdowns in St. Louis' 45-27 loss to Buffalo.

Top receiver: The Rams' Isaac Bruce caught nine passes for 136 yards against the Bills.

Notes: Morten Andersen kicked an NFL-record three field goals of more than 50 yards in Atlanta's 19-14 win over New Orleans. The record of two 50+ field goals in a game was shared by 29 kickers, including Andersen (while with the Saints in 1983). . . . Denver's Glyn Milburn set a pro football record for total yards in a game by accumulating 404 against Seattle. Milburn had 228 kick return yards, 131 rushing yards and 45 receiving yards to eclipse the 373 Billy Cannon had for Houston against the New York Titans in an AFL game on December 10, 1961. . . . Chicago's 16-10 loss at Cincinnati extended the Bears' streak of not winning a road game in December to 16. The last time the Bears won such a game was December 27, 1987, against the Raiders. . . . Detroit quarterback Scott Mitchell threw two touchdown passes against Houston to give him 28 for the season, breaking Bobby Layne's club record of 26 set in 1951. . . . Buffalo's Thurman Thomas ran for 129 yards against St. Louis to break O.J. Simpson's team record for 100-yard rushing games. Simpson had 41 such performances from 1969-77. . . . Indianapolis'

41-31 victory at Jacksonville was only the second time in the '90s that the Colts exceeded the 40-point plateau. . . . Packers defensive end Reggie White missed the first game of his pro career when a pulled left hamstring prevented him from playing against Tampa Bay. Including his two seasons in the USFL, White had played in 200 consecutive games. . . . San Francisco's victory at Carolina gave the 49ers a double-digit win total for an NFL-record 13th consecutive year. Conversely, Tampa Bay's 13-10 overtime win against Green Bay assured the Bucs that they would not finish with double-digit losses for the 13th consecutive season.

Quote of the week: Oakland running back Harvey Williams, acknowledging that the Raiders' hopes of making the playoffs were slowly fading in the midst of the team's four-game losing streak after an 8-2 start: "If I had bet my life the season could end like this, I guess I'd be dead by now."

Hero of the week: Jerry Rice was even better than his usual in San Francisco's 37-30 victory over Minnesota. Rice caught 14 passes for 289 yards (the fifth-biggest single game total in NFL history) and scored three touchdowns.

Goat of the week: Fullback Charles Way had a rough day in the Giants' 21-20 loss at Dallas. He dropped a pass while wide open in the end zone, was penalized for holding to wipe out a touchdown run by fellow rookie Tyrone Wheatley and dropped a pass with less than four minutes left as New York was trying to protect a two-point lead.

Sub of the week: Chicago cornerback Kevin Miniefield, subbing for the injured Donnell Woolford, intercepted two passes, broke up three others and recorded three tackles in the Bears' 31-10 rout of Tampa Bay.

Comeback of the week: After falling behind by 17 points, Philadelphia scored 21 of the game's next 24 points to beat Arizona, 21-20. Derrick Witherspoon got the comeback started by returning a kickoff 86 yards for a touchdown midway through the second quarter. The Eagles' defense also played a critical role by forcing five turnovers in the second half, three on fumbles by Garrison Hearst.

Blowout of the week: Take your pick. Detroit's 44-0 victory over Jacksonville was impressive, but the Jaguars were an expansion team. Seattle's 44-10 rout of Oakland was perhaps more impressive, as the Seahawks scored on all five of their first-half possessions.

Nail-biter of the week: San Diego kept its playoff hopes alive with a 27-24 come-from-behind win at Indianapolis. John Carney's 43-yard field goal with three seconds left won it for the Chargers, who had taken a 24-21 lead on another Carney field goal with 1:59 left, only to see the Colts tie it on a 50-yard field goal by Cary Blanchard with 48 seconds left.

Hit of the week: By Washington linebacker Marvcus Patton, who hit and forced a fumble by Rams receiver Todd Kinchen deep in St. Louis territory midway through the fourth quarter. The ball bounced right into the hands of defensive end Tony Woods, who rumbled 3 yards into the end zone to increase the Redskins' lead to 12 points.

Oddity of the week: Although they had the conference's ninth-best record, the Broncos had an AFC-high six players named to the Pro Bowl.

Top rusher: Rodney Hampton rushed 34 times for a career-high 187 yards in the Giants' 21-20 loss at Dallas.

Top passer: Steve Young was 30-of-49 for 425 yards and three touchdowns in San Francisco's victory over Minnesota.

Top receiver: Rice broke his personal best of 241 yards in one game by the end of the third quarter.

Notes: The Cleveland Browns played their final game in that Ohio city on December 17. The Browns beat Cincinnati, 26-10, to extend their winning streak against the Bengals to seven games and snap an overall losing streak at six games. A crowd of 55,875 attended the game at Cleveland Stadium, but more than 12,000 tickets went unsold and about 11,000 people who bought tickets stayed away. Club owner Art Modell had announced a month earlier that he would be moving the team to Baltimore for the 1996 season. . . . In another franchise finale, the Houston Oilers whipped the New York Jets, 23-6, at the Astrodome. On the heels of owner Bud Adams' announcement that he would be moving the team to Tennessee for 1996, only 35,873 people showed up. Those who did saw rookie quarterback Steve McNair make his first NFL start and a pathetic Jets offense muster just 13 total yards in the first half. . . . Detroit's Herman Moore (113) and Brett Perriman (103) became the first pair of receivers from one team to record 100 receptions in the same season. The duo also set a single-season record for combined pass receptions, breaking the mark of 207 set by Minnesota's Cris Carter and Jake Reed in 1994. . . . Chicago's Jeff Graham caught five passes for 102 yards against Tampa Bay to set a Bears record for single-season receiving yardage (1,226). Johnny Morris had 1,200 yards in 1964. . . . Denver's 20-17 loss at Kansas City assured the 7-8 Broncos of their second consecutive non-winning season. The last time that happened was 1971-72. Kansas City swept Denver for the first time since 1980. . . . Detroit's Rodney Holman made his 211th career start at tight end, the most in NFL history. Jackie Smith started 210 games with St. Louis and Dallas from 1963-78. . . . Pittsburgh's 41-27 win over New England was the Steelers' eighth in a row, the longest winning streak in the league in 1995 and the Steelers' longest since a nine-game streak in 1978-79. Pittsburgh allowed just two rushing touchdowns in the eight wins. . . . Edgar Bennett ran for 80 yards against the Saints, giving him 1,010 for the season; he became the first Packer to rush for 1,000 yards since Terdell Middleton in 1978. . . . Buffalo clinched its sixth AFC Eastern Division crown in eight seasons with a 23-20 win over Miami. . . . Bucs quarterback Trent Dilfer ended a streak of 277 consecutive passes without a touchdown when he threw a 20-yard touchdown pass to Horace Copeland in the first quarter against Chicago.

Quote of the week: Browns linebacker Pepper Johnson, describing the scene in Cleveland following Modell's announcement that the team would be moving the team out of the city: "You've got some people who are really salty about the whole situation. Then you had some people who all they could do was stand and cheer and clap for us. Right now, this city is just a bunch of confused people."

Hero of the week: Dallas running back Emmitt Smith scored on a 3-yard run in the fourth quarter of a victory over Arizona, giving him an NFL-record 25 touchdowns in one season. The touchdown was the 100th of his pro career.

Goat of the week: Pittsburgh's Yancey Thigpen was wide open in the end zone in the closing seconds of the Steelers' game at Green Bay but dropped a fourth-down pass from Neil O'Donnell. The botched play was a godsend for the Packers, who escaped with a 24-19 victory that gave them their first outright NFC Central title since 1972 and a first-round playoff game at home.

Sub of the week: Bobby Hebert replaced injured Atlanta quarterback Jeff George late in the first half and engineered a 28-27 upset of San Francisco. Hebert tossed two touchdown passes to Terance Mathis, the game-winner coming with 1:45 to play and covering 37 yards. Hebert was 17-of-27 for 197 yards as the Falcons nailed down a playoff spot.

Comeback of the week: Cincinnati's second-half blitz of Minnesota. Trailing 24-3 at halftime, the Bengals tied it on a 5-yard touchdown run by Eric Bieniemy and two scoring passes by Jeff Blake before winning the contest on Doug Pelfrey's 51-yard field goal.

Blowout of the week: Although Detroit's pounding of Tampa Bay was achieved by a slightly wider margin, Dallas' romp past Arizona on Monday night was more emphatic. The victory enabled the Cowboys to sew up home-field advantage throughout the playoffs, a status they seemed to have blown earlier in the month with losses to Washington and Philadelphia. Dallas got help the day before when the 49ers, on the brink of wrapping up the home-field edge, stumbled at Atlanta. The Cowboys bolted to a 24-0 lead against the Cardinals and rolled to their 12th triumph of the season.

Nail-biters of the week: Jacksonville and Cincinnati won on the final play of their games, with Mike Hollis' 34-yard field goal lifting the Jaguars past Cleveland and Pelfrey's long-range shot allowing the Bengals to edge Minnesota. Washington and Denver won in the last minute of their games against Carolina and Oakland, respectively. Oakland's loss gave Miami a wild-card playoff berth.

Hit of the week: San Francisco's Tim Harris dumped Atlanta's George hard to the ground and knocked him out of the game shortly before halftime.

Oddity of the week: The sight of snowballs cascading from the stands as the Giants played the Chargers at Giants Stadium. The flinging went on for much of the game as fans vented their frustrations over a sorry Giants season (5-11). It wasn't a harmless pastime, either; San Diego equipment manager Sid Brooks was felled by what was described as an "ice ball." The Chargers kept their composure, though, rallying from a 17-3 deficit and winning a playoff berth with a 27-17 victory. Shaun Gayle's 99-yard interception return—he was untouched except perhaps for a few snowballs—provided the visitors with the go-ahead score.

Top rusher: Chicago's Rashaan Salaam ran for 122 yards on 30 carries as the Bears kept their playoff hopes alives with a 20-14 victory over the Eagles. Just moments after the game, though, word came that Atlanta had upset San Francisco; Chicago needed a Falcons loss or tie to make the playoffs.

Top passer: Detroit's Scott Mitchell riddled Tampa Bay for 352 yards to cap an outstanding regular season. Mitchell threw for 4,338 yards and 32 touchdowns in 1995.

Top receiver: Isaac Bruce was a bright spot in the Rams' eighth loss in 10 games, amassing 210 yards on 15 receptions against the Dolphins.

Notes: San Francisco's Jerry Rice caught 12 passes for 153 yards against Atlanta, setting NFL records for career receptions (942) and receiving yards in one season (1,848). . . . The Falcons' Morten Andersen kicked 52- and 59-yard field goals against the 49ers, giving him an NFL-record eight field goals of at least 50 yards in one season. . . . Despite his end-zone drop, Pittsburgh's Thigpen caught six passes and finished the season with a team-record 85 receptions. . . . The Lions finished with a seven-game winning streak. . . . The Chiefs' 26-3 thumping of Seattle completed Kansas City's sweep of AFC West opponents. . . . The last time Green Bay had more than the 11 victories it posted in 1995 was 1966, when the Packers won 12 games under Vince Lombardi. . . . Green Bay's Brett Favre threw two touchdown passes against Pittsburgh, boosting his season total to an NFC-record 38. . . . The worst record in the expansion season was compiled by the New York Jets, who finished 3-13 in their 36th year. Carolina and Jacksonville, the two new clubs, went 7-9 (Panthers) and 4-12 (Jaguars).

Quote of the week: The Steelers' Thigpen, after his stone-fingers act in the December 24 Steelers-Packers game resulted in a divisional championship for the Pack: "Merry Christmas, Green Bay. That's their Christmas present. Santa came a day early."

WILD-CARD GAMES

AFC

BUFFALO 37, MIAMI 22

Why the Bills won: They took command early and never let up. The Bills scored 10 points in the first eight minutes and led 24-0 midway through the second quarter, igniting the home crowd of 73,103. Miami didn't score until there was 1:07 left; by that point, Buffalo led 27-0.

Why the Dolphins lost: In addition to their offensive failures, they couldn't stop the Bills' running game. Thurman Thomas ran for 158 yards on 25 carries and rookies Darick Holmes and Tim Tindale combined for 155 as Buffalo rushed for 341 yards to set an AFC playoff record. Thomas had 113 yards in the first half.

The turning points:

1. With Buffalo ahead 10-0 late in the first quarter, Miami began its first sustained offensive drive. But after reaching the Bills' 32, Dolphins quarterback Dan Marino threw a fourth-down pass that was too high for intended receiver Gary Clark. The Bills took over, and after Thomas carried the ball for 13 and 32 yards, Holmes broke four tackles on a 21-yard touchdown gallop.

2. The next time Miami had possession, Marino was hit by Phil Hansen, forcing a wobbly pass that was intercepted by Bills linebacker Marlo Perry. Three plays later, Steve Tasker caught a 37-yard pass from Jim Kelly in the corner of the end zone to increase Buffalo's lead to 24-0.

Notable: The victory was the Bills' ninth in a row in the playoffs at Rich Stadium. . . . Thomas tied John Riggins' NFL record with his sixth 100-yard playoff game. . . . Tasker caught five passes for 108 yards in the first half before sitting out the second half with a hamstring injury. . . . Marino was 33-of-64, and at least 10 of his passes were dropped. . . . Tindale, who scored Buffalo's final touchdown, had only 16 yards rushing all season. . . . The victory improved Buffalo coach Marv Levy's all-time record against Don Shula to 17-6, including 3-0 in the playoffs. As it turned out, the game was Shula's last as Miami coach. Less than a week later, he was forced to resign after 26 seasons with the Dolphins and 33 years in the NFL. Shula's final NFL coaching record was 347-173-6, including 19-17 in postseason play. Ironically, Levy, 67, was the only NFL coach older than Shula (66) at the time of his exit.

Quotable: Shula, who had been under fire for the underachieving Dolphins all year: "It's a tough way to remember this season." . . . Thomas on the Bills' big rushing day: "A great accomplishment for the offensive line. They played the game of their lives." . . . Marino on Miami's latest playoff defeat: "I'm kind of like in shock. It's hard to say why we played the way we did. It was just like we couldn't even get in the game. I've never been dominated like this before."

INDIANAPOLIS 35, SAN DIEGO 20

Why the Colts won: Because Zack Crockett did his best Marshall Faulk imitation. Faulk, a two-time Pro Bowl running back, was forced to leave the game after reaggravating his bruised left knee after only two plays. In stepped Crockett, a rookie who carried the ball one time (for no yards) from scrimmage during the regular season. But against the Chargers, Crockett was spectacular, scoring two touchdowns while rushing for a team playoff-record 147 yards on 13 carries.

Why the Chargers lost: Besides their inability to stop Crockett—San Diego had allowed an average of 56 yards rushing in its previous four games—the Chargers also were unable to hold on to the ball. Quarterback Stan Humphries was the main culprit, throwing twice as many interceptions (four) as touchdown passes (2).

The turning points:

1. After Humphries threw a 6-yard scoring pass to Alfred Pupunu nine minutes into the second quarter to give the Chargers a 10-7 lead, Crockett ran 33 yards untouched for a touchdown on the Colts' next possession to give Indianapolis a 14-10 halftime lead.

2. After San Diego regained the lead (17-14) on Shawn Jefferson's 11-yard touchdown catch from Humphries with 4:20 left in the third quarter, Indianapolis went back on top less than four minutes later when Sean Dawkins outdueled rookie cornerback Terrence Shaw to catch a 42-yard touchdown pass from Jim Harbaugh.

Notable: Crockett's 147 yards rushing broke a Colts playoff record shared by Tom Matte (set in 1969) and Norm Bulaich (tied in 1970). . . . It was the Colts' first playoff win since a 20-3 victory over Cleveland on December 26, 1971. The Colts had lost their past five postseason games. . . . The win snapped an 11-game losing streak by visiting teams in AFC first-round playoff games. . . . The Chargers had beaten the Colts, 27-24, two weeks earlier in Indianapolis. . . . John Carney's 54-yard field goal in the first quarter was the longest in Chargers playoff history. . . . Defensive back Eugene Daniel and guard Randy Dixon were the only remaining players from the last Colts playoff team (1987).

Quotable: Crockett, whose 11.3-yard average per carry was third-best in NFL playoff history: "God blessed me today. It was amazing." . . . Colts Coach Ted Marchibroda: "We knew Zack could run with the football, but we certainly didn't expect this kind of performance, to be perfectly honest with you." . . . Chargers linebacker Junior Seau: "We went out there and fell on our face." . . . Colts defensive tackle Tony Siragusa, who joined the team in 1990 after playing college ball at Pittsburgh: "When I first came here, I thought Indianapolis was in New Jersey. We've come a long way since then." . . . San Diego defensive tackle Rueben Davis: "I never would have thought without Faulk in the game somebody could rush for that many yards on us. A guy coming from the fullback position, that's kind of scary, man. I'm kind of glad I don't have to look at the film. I don't want to see those plays again."

PHILADELPHIA 58, DETROIT 37

Why the Eagles won: They played a near-perfect game. Quarterback Rodney Peete was 17-of-25 for 270 yards and three touchdowns as Philadelphia scored 44 consecutive points after the game was tied early. The Eagles' defense forced seven turnovers and held Detroit's No. 1-ranked offense in check all afternoon.

Why the Lions lost: Quarterback Scott Mitchell suffered a severe case of stage fright in his first NFL playoff game. He completed fewer than half his passes and was intercepted four times before being yanked in the third quarter. His replacement, Don Majkowski, led the Lions on four touchdown drives in the second half, but the game already was out of reach.

The turning points:

1. On Detroit's third possession, Mitchell threw a pass high and off the hands of wide receiver Brett Perriman in Philadelphia territory. Cornerback Mark McMillian intercepted and returned it 16 yards to the Lions' 15. On the next play, running back Charlie Garner raced around right end for the game's first score.

2. Although the score was tied after the first quarter, any pretense of a close game ended shortly thereafter. The Eagles scored 24 points in a 7:57 span to break the Lions' spirit, and a 43-yard "Hail Mary" touchdown pass from Peete to Rob Carpenter on the final play before halftime broke their backs. Philadelphia's 31 second-quarter points made it the second-highest scoring quarter for one team in NFL playoff history.

Notable: The combined 95 points made this the highest-scoring game in NFL playoff history. The previous record, 79 points, was achieved twice (both in overtime games). . . . Philadelphia's 58 points were the third-highest total for a postseason game. Only Chicago (73 points against Washington in 1940) and Detroit (59 against Cleveland in 1957) scored more. . . . Detroit entered the game with a league-high seven-game winning streak. . . . The playoff victory was the Eagles' first at home since a 20-7 win over Dallas in the NFC championship game on January 11, 1981.

Quotable: Peete, who played five years in Detroit before leaving as a free agent: "I wasn't looking at this game as a revenge game, but when it got to be 51-7, I was enjoying it." . . . Philadelphia cornerback Bobby Taylor: "Things were going so well, it was scary out there." . . . Detroit Coach Wayne Fontes: "It was 7-7 and all of a sudden I turned around and it was 31-7. It was so quick I couldn't believe it." . . . Eagles defensive lineman Andy Harmon on the Veterans Stadium scoreboard: "They went up pretty fast. I looked up and it was like, 'How did we score all those points?' " . . . Philadelphia Coach Ray Rhodes on Detroit offensive tackle Lomas Brown's pregame prediction of a Lions victory: "If Brown had been a two- or three-time Super Bowl champ or something, it would have been different for a guy to feel that confident. When you've never been there, it's hard to start guaranteeing things that you don't know anything about. He hasn't been in this situation a lot. The best thing when you're in this position is keep your mouth shut."

GREEN BAY 37, ATLANTA 20

Why the Packers won: League MVP Brett Favre, who had more spectacular games during the regular season, was coolly efficient in this one. He was 24-of-35 for 199 yards and three touchdowns, completed passes to nine receivers and did not commit a turnover. Edgar Bennett pitched in with a team playoff-record 108 yards rushing.

Why the Falcons lost: Unlike the Packers, Atlanta's offense was anything but balanced. Jeff George was 30-of-54 for 366 and two touchdowns, but the Falcons' running game was nearly non-existent. They ran only 10 times (for 21 yards) and ended the game with 29 consecutive pass attempts.

The turning points:

1. After Eric Metcalf and George hooked up on a 65-yard touchdown pass to give the Falcons an early 7-0 lead, the Packers responded by driving for touchdowns the next two times they had the ball. Bennett ran 8 yards for a score to end the first drive and Robert Brooks caught a 14-yard pass from Favre to end the other touchdown drive.

2. After a scoreless third quarter, the Falcons pulled themselves back into contention on a 27-yard touchdown pass from George to J.J. Birden, cutting the Packers' lead to 27-17 with 14:07 left. But on Green Bay's next possession, Favre capped a 70-yard drive by hitting Dorsey Levens with an 18-yard touchdown pass.

Notable: Bennett's 108 yards rushing broke a Packers' playoff record shared by Jim Taylor (set in 1960) and Paul Hornung (tied in 1966). . . . Green Bay improved its home playoff record to 9-0. . . . Weather was not a factor but the field conditions were poor. The temperature at kickoff was 30 degrees with a wind chill of 20. The field itself was 40 degrees, thanks to seven miles of heating coils underneath the surface. But the field was slick in some spots and muddy in others. . . . The attendance of 60,453 set a Lambeau Field playoff record. . . . The Falcons yielded an NFL-record 4,751 yards passing during the regular season. . . . Packers guard Aaron Taylor, who missed his entire 1994 rookie season after tearing the patellar tendon in his right knee, torn the same tendon in his left knee late in the first half.

Quotable: Green Bay defensive end Sean Jones, commenting on the Falcons, who boldly spoke of whipping the Packers after beating San Francisco the previous week: "Some of them guys were running their mouths entirely too much for a team that's never won anything. They had beat the world champions last week, and said we hadn't beat nobody. But they're going to wake up tomorrow and realize this is the playoffs." . . . Falcons Coach June Jones on the lack of a running game: "The footing was bad. Then we got behind and we kind of gave up on it." . . . Favre: "We put up modest numbers and won pretty big. Whatever opportunity existed at the time, we were able to take advantage of it. You don't have to throw for 400 yards to be effective."

DIVISIONAL PLAYOFFS

PITTSBURGH 40, BUFFALO 21

Why the Steelers won: They didn't succumb to overconfidence. Having compiled a better record than Buffalo during the regular season and playing at home, the Steelers certainly were a candidate to do so. Instead, they controlled the clock with their running game and shut down a Buffalo offense that rolled up 536 yards against Miami in a playoff victory a week earlier.

Why the Bills lost: They couldn't overcome injury and illness. All-Pro defensive end Bruce Smith remained bed-ridden in Buffalo with a severe case of the flu, and quarterback Jim Kelly (dislocated right collarbone) and running back Thurman Thomas (sprained right ankle) were less than 100 percent for most of the game.

The turning points:

1. On their first possession, the Steelers drove 76 yards to take a 7-0 lead on a 1-yard touchdown run by John L. Williams. It set the tone for the game and showed how difficult a day it would be for the Bills without Smith, the spiritual leader of their defense and the NFL's all-time leader in postseason sacks. Instead, a Buffalo defense that led the league in sacks during the regular season never got to Steelers quarterback Neil O'Donnell.

2. With Pittsburgh leading 7-0, the Steelers got a big break when Ernie Mills was credited with catching a 10-yard touchdown pass from O'Donnell when one of his feet was clearly out of bounds in the back of the end zone. The officials ruled Mills was pushed out by two Bills defenders.

Notable: The Bills dropped to 0-5 when allowing an opposing runner to rush for 100 yards in a playoff game. Bam Morris ran 25 times for 106 yards and scored two touchdowns. . . . Norm Johnson kicked four field goals for Pittsburgh. . . . The Steelers' 40 points tied a club playoff record. . . . Smith's replacement was Karl Wilson, a nine-year veteran playing for his eighth NFL team. Wilson had seven tackles. . . . The loss was Buffalo's third in a row in Pittsburgh in as many years, by a combined score of 86-31.

Quotable: O'Donnell, asked his reaction after Buffalo cut a 20-point deficit to five early in the fourth quarter: "Was I scared? Personally, no, but I was looking at some of our guys and their eyes were a little big." . . . Kelly on the perception that some people did not want to see the Bills, a four-time Super Bowl loser, advance to the next round: "The NFL got their prayers answered, and so did the officials. We're not in the playoffs any more." . . . Buffalo coach Marv Levy on Smith's absence: "We would have loved to have had him, sure. We weren't as effective in the pass rush as we would have liked to be. But you can always find a reason for losing." . . . Kelly on the officiating: "They stunk the whole year, but that's not why we lost."

INDIANAPOLIS 10, KANSAS CITY 7

Why the Colts won: They ran the ball effectively, made few mistakes and played sound defense. Even without injured star Marshall Faulk, the Colts rushed 39 times for 147 yards against the league's No. 3 defense against the run during the regular season. Indianapolis also committed only one turnover against a Chiefs defense that prided itself on forcing giveaways.

Why the Chiefs lost: They simply self-destructed in their biggest game of the year. Kansas City had the league's best record and were unbeaten at home in the regular season, but none of that mattered in the playoffs. Steve Bono threw three interceptions, Lin Elliott missed three field goals and Tamarick Vanover fumbled on a punt return.

The turning points:

1. After Kansas City took a 7-0 lead on a 20-yard touchdown pass from Bono to Lake Dawson late in the first period, the Colts bounced right back with an 18-play, 77-yard drive to stem the Chiefs' momentum. The Colts converted five third-down plays and one fourth-down play on the drive and tied the game on Jim Harbaugh's 5-yard touchdown pass to Floyd Turner.

2. With it tied at 7 in the third quarter, Bono tried to force a pass to a well-covered Webster Slaughter on a crossing pattern near midfield. Ashley Ambrose intercepted to give Indianapolis the ball on its 48. Harbaugh then drove the Colts 39 yards to Kansas City's 13, setting up a 30-yard field goal by Cary Blanchard. The Chiefs put together an impressive drive the next time they got possession, but Elliott missed a 39-yard field-goal attempt.

Notable: Elliott's final missed field goal was from 43 yards out with 37 seconds left. . . . The Chiefs led the NFL in turnover ratio during the regular season at plus-12. Against the Colts, they were minus-3. . . . It was Kansas City's first loss at home in 13 months. . . . The crowd of 77,594 was a playoff record at Arrowhead Stadium. . . . The weather was far from ideal. Temperature at kickoff was 11 degrees with a minus-9 wind chill. . . . Beside Faulk (knee), Indianapolis also played without defensive tackle Tony Siragusa (flu). . . . The Colts advanced to the AFC championship game for the first time since 1970.

Quotable: Elliott: "I tried my hardest. Maybe I'm not good enough, but I tried. This is not going to be the best night of my life." . . . Colts Coach Ted Marchibroda on the team's back-to-back playoff wins: "It's not a fluke. Nobody picks us. We're the dead-end kids, so to speak. But we're doing a hell of a job." . . . Indianapolis linebacker Trev Alberts: "Maybe we're too young and dumb to realize the significance of this, but this is a huge win for the Colts." . . . Colts fullback Zack Crockett: "We came, we conquered. What else can you say?"

GREEN BAY 27, SAN FRANCISCO 17

Why the Packers won: They beat the 49ers at their own game. Usually, it's San Francisco that jumps out to big early leads and methodically beats its opponent into submission with a high-powered offense and stingy defense. This time, the Packers turned the tables, grabbing a 21-0 lead with three touchdowns in the first 19 minutes and forcing the 49ers to throw on nearly every down.

Why the 49ers lost: They never recovered from the Packers' big start—and their mistakes. The 49ers lost the turnover battle, 4-0, and seemed to be out of sync offensively the entire game. Much of the credit for that goes to Fritz Shurmur, the Packers' defensive coordinator. Although Jerry Rice caught 11 passes for 117 yards, he never broke a long one, and Steve Young's NFL playoff-record 65 passes were the product of neccessity, not design. The 49ers' running game was awful, as Young accounted for all but 10 of San Francisco's 87 rushing yards.

The turning points:

1. Young threw a swing pass to fullback Adam Walker on San Francisco's first offensive play of the game. Walker caught the ball, but Wayne Simmons hit him almost immediately, forcing a fumble that Craig Newsome scooped up and returned 31 yards for the game's first touchdown.

2. On Green Bay's next possession, Brett Favre led the Packers 62 yards in only four plays, throwing 35 yards to Keith Jackson, 20 yards to Robert Brooks and 3 yards to Jackson for another touchdown. It was the first time all season the 49ers trailed by 14 points, and the momentum was on the Packers' side.

Notable: Young's 65 pass attempts were a career-high. . . . San Francisco lost in the first round of the playoffs for the first time since 1987. . . . It was the first playoff game between the Packers and 49ers, who entered the '95 postseason with the best playoff records (in terms of percentage) in NFL history. . . . Favre's quarterback rating for Green Bay's first two playoff games was 121.0. Against the 49ers, he was 15-of-17 for 222 yards and two touchdowns in the first half.

Quotable: Young: "We don't see ourselves down that quickly very often. Once we got behind, we had to pass. Every time we tried to make plays, they put pressure on us." . . . Jackson: "When you're up 21-0 against anybody else, it's great. But when you're 21-0 on the 49ers, you get nervous. You're like, 'Let the clock roll. Let the clock roll.' " . . . 49ers defensive tackle Dana Stubblefield: "I've never been in this type of spot before. We busted our butts and they come into our backyard and beat us. Their coach guaranteed a victory, and then made good on it." . . . San Francisco strong safety Tim McDonald on Favre: "I really can't tell if he's that good, but we did get mesmerized by him during the game." . . . Favre: "We came out here thinking we could win this game, unlike the playoff games in the past when we were just happy to be there." . . . Shurmur, who coached against the 49ers often during his days with the Rams: "When they come out and score on you on the first drive, it's the first of 40 points they're going to score on you. I've been bullied and beaten a lot by this team."

DALLAS 30, PHILADELPHIA 11

Why the Cowboys won: They kept the game plan simple and executed it perfectly. Offensively, Dallas ran the ball 38 times and averaged more than four yards per rush, and Troy Aikman completed better than 70 percent of his passes. Defensively, the Eagles were no match for a talented Cowboys unit that held Philadelphia to 74 yards rushing even without injured star Charles Haley.

Why the Eagles lost: They were physically manhandled, particulary on the lines. The Cowboys' massive offensive line had little trouble opening holes for Emmitt Smith (99 yards, one touchdown), and the defensive line had five sacks while harrassing Rodney Peete and Randall Cunningham all day. Pro Bowl running back Ricky Watters had 39 yards on 13 carries.

The turning points:

1. On the last play of the first quarter, Dallas safety Darren Woodson knocked Peete out of the game with a hard, but clean, hit as the Philadelphia quarterback was trying to scramble for a first down. Cunningham, who missed the entire week of practice before the game to attend his daughter's birth in Las Vegas, took over but was ineffective, finishing 11-of-26.

2. With it tied at 3 early in the second quarter, Deion Sanders took a handoff on a reverse and sped 21 yards to score the Cowboys' first touchdown of the game. Although it gave Dallas only a seven-point lead and plenty of time remained, Sanders' touchdown sparked his teammates and the Texas Stadium crowd of 64,371. The Cowboys scored the game's next 20 points.

Notable: Dallas advanced to the NFC championship game for the fourth consecutive season and a record 14th time overall. . . . Sanders, who also caught one pass, intercepted a pass in the fourth quarter to set up Dallas' final touchdown. . . . The victory was the Cowboys' 45th against the Eagles, their most against any team. . . . Chris Boniol kicked three field goals for Dallas, including a career-best 51-yarder. . . . During the regular season, the Eagles were 9-3 in games with Peete as their starting quarterback, 1-3 with Cunningham. . . . The Eagles double-covered standout receiver Michael Irvin, holding him to one catch for 9 yards, but Kevin Williams caught six passes for 124 yards.

Quotable: Sanders, who was playing his 10th game for Dallas after signing a $35 million free-agent contract but had made minimal impact: "It felt great to finally have a large impact on a game." . . . Cowboys guard Nate Newton, noting the effect San Francisco's 27-17 loss to Green Bay the previous day had on his teammates: "What Green Bay did to (the 49ers) opened some eyes around here. You have to be ready. No way were we going to overlook Philly." . . . Woodson about his hit on Peete: "We came at each other straight. Peete wasn't going to move out of the way. I wasn't going to move out of the way. You saw what happened." . . . Philadelphia coach Ray Rhodes: "I don't think we were in awe of them. We just didn't match up physically."

CONFERENCE CHAMPIONSHIPS

PITTSBURGH 20, INDIANAPOLIS 16

Why the Steelers won: They made all the big plays when they needed to. They converted a key fourth down on what turned out to be the game-winning touchdown drive, got a probable game-saving tackle from cornerback Willie Williams when trailing early in the fourth quarter, and tipped away a desperation pass in the end zone as time expired.

Why the Colts lost: Unlike the Steelers, they failed to make many big plays. Linebacker Quentin Coryatt dropped a sure interception on Pittsburgh's game-winning drive, and cornerback Ashley Ambrose was beaten badly by wide receiver Ernie Mills on a 37-yard pass play that moved the ball to the Colts' 1, setting up the game-winning touchdown.

The turning points:

1. With Pittsburgh at the Indianapolis 5 just seconds before halftime and trailing 6-3, Steelers receiver Kordell Stewart stepped out of bounds in the back of the end zone as he tried to outrun double coverage. He then stepped back in bounds and caught a pass from quarterback Neil O'Donnell. The officials didn't see Stewart step out of bounds—a move that made him an ineligible receiver on the play, unless he was pushed out—and allowed the play to stand. The "touchdown" gave the Steelers their first lead.

2. Trailing 16-13 with three minutes left and the ball on their 33, the Steelers began the game's pivotal drive. O'Donnell started it by throwing 13 yards to Stewart. After three plays mustered only 7 yards (including Coryatt's botched interception), O'Donnell hit Andre Hastings for 9 yards on fourth down to the Colts' 38. Mills then beat Ambrose down the right side for 37 yards, setting up Bam Morris' 1-yard touchdown run with 1:34 left.

3. With five seconds left and Pittsburgh leading by four points, Indianapolis quarterback Jim Harbaugh lofted a pass into the right corner of the Pittsburgh end zone. Five Steelers and three Colts converged on the ball, with cornerback Darren Perry touching it amid outstretched hands. The ball landed on the stomach of fallen Colts receiver Aaron Bailey, but it rolled off before he could gain possession.

Notable: For the first time in AFC championship game history, neither team lost a fumble. . . . Pittsburgh's fourth-quarter comeback was its league-leading fifth of the season. . . . The Colts became just the third team in the past 47 NFL playoff games to commit fewer turnovers and still lose. . . . The Colts (0-9) have never won at Pittsburgh's Three Rivers Stadium. . . . At 38, Pittsburgh's Bill Cowher became the youngest coach to take his team to the Super Bowl.

Quotable: Pittsburgh wide receiver Yancey Thigpen, noting the similarities between this game and the 1995 AFC championship game, when the favored Steelers lost at home to San Diego on a long touchdown pass with 5:13 left: "Without a doubt, last year came into my mind. (The Colts) kept hanging around, just like the Chargers did last year, and I said, `Here we go again.' " . . . Mills on his 37-yard catch: "When they called that play, my eyes lit up. I didn't expect them to call that." . . . Hastings on the key 9-yard, fourth-down pass from O'Donnell: "Neil put it right on the money. He hit me right in the numbers. If I didn't catch it, it probably would have broken my shoulder pads." . . . Perry on the game's final play: "I held my breath for the longest time."

DALLAS 38, GREEN BAY 27

Why the Cowboys won: Their top three offensive stars were great. Emmitt Smith ran 35 times for 150 yards and scored three touchdowns, Troy Aikman threw for 255 yards and two touchdowns without an interception, and Michael Irvin caught seven passes for 100 yards and two touchdowns.

Why the Packers lost: They did not play error-free football, something they had to do to defeat a team that had whipped them six consecutive times. Green Bay committed two turnovers—both on interceptions thrown by Brett Favre—and each resulted in Dallas points. The Packers did not commit a turnover in either of their first two playoff games.

The turning points:

1. With Dallas leading 7-3 in the first quarter, a Favre screen pass was picked off by defensive tackle Leon Lett, giving Dallas possession at the Packers' 13. Three plays later, Irvin caught a 4-yard touchdown pass from Aikman to increase the Cowboys' lead to 14-3.

2. With the game tied at 17 late in the first half, the Cowboys took possession on their 1. On first down, Smith rambled 25 yards to get his mates some breathing room. Ten plays and 73 yards later, Smith scored on a 1-yard run for a 24-17 lead.

3. With Dallas leading 31-27 early in the fourth quarter, Favre completed two passes and Edgar Bennett ran 18 yards to move the ball to Dallas' 46. On the next play, Favre rolled right and set his sights on wide receiver Mark Ingram. At the same time, Dallas cornerback Larry Brown set his sights on Favre, stepped in front of Ingram and intercepted Favre's pass at the Dallas 20. Brown returned the ball 28 yards. On the first play, Aikman hit Irvin for 36 yards. On the second, Smith scored his third touchdown for the game's final points.

Notable: Packers assistant coach Gil Haskell was carted off the sidelines after suffering severe head and neck injuries in a nasty collision with Brooks near the Packers' bench. Haskell was hospitalized for 11 days in Dallas before being discharged. . . . Dallas knocked Green Bay out of the playoffs for the third consecutive year. . . . The Packers were playing in their first title game of any kind since Super Bowl II in January 1968. . . . The Cowboys, who advanced to the Super Bowl for a record eighth time, became only the second team in win an NFC championship game when trailing after three quarters. The Giants beat the 49ers in similar fashion in January 1991. . . . Favre's 73-yard touchdown pass to Robert Brooks in the first quarter was the longest scoring play in Green Bay playoff history. . . . The Cowboys had scoring drives of 80, 90 and 99 yards. . . . Smith tied an NFL playoff record shared by John Riggins and Thurman Thomas with his sixth 100-yard rushing game. His three touchdowns tied a Dallas postseason record.

Quotable: Brown on his fourth-quarter interception: "Favre has a strong arm and I think he thought he could get it through. I also don't think he believed I could get there in time." . . . Irvin on much-maligned Cowboys coach Barry Switzer: "We're in back-to-back NFC championship games and you guys (reporters) still say the man can't coach. Somebody write it tomorrow. Please. Give this man a little credit. He deserves it." . . . Dallas owner Jerry Jones: "Barry has been the most criticized coach in the NFL, even more than guys who have been fired." . . . Smith on his club-playoff-record 35 carries: "I was used up at 25 carries. After that, I was running on 'E'. " . . . Brown: "With Deion (Sanders) at the other corner, they have been throwing at me all year. The Steelers will, too, so I guess I better start preparing for it right now."

SUPER BOWL XXX

AT SUN DEVIL STADIUM, TEMPE, ARIZ., JANUARY 28, 1996

DALLAS 27, PITTSBURGH 17

Why the Cowboys won: From top to bottom, they were the better team. But they also took advantage of their opportunities in a game statistically dominated by Pittsburgh. On a day when the Cowboys' star-studded offense was a bit off, their defense stepped to the fore with four sacks and three interceptions. Cornerback Larry Brown had two pivotal interceptions that changed the game's complexion.

Why the Steelers lost: Quarterback Neil O'Donnell had a bad game. It may be unfair to blame one player when a team loses, but if O'Donnell gets the bulk of the credit for Pittsburgh's successes (as he did when the Steelers won eight consecutive games late in the season), he sometimes has to take the blame when the team loses. O'Donnell threw three interceptions and appeared shaky throughout the Super Bowl, especially in the first half. Brown's interceptions were killers.

The turning points:

1. With the Steelers facing third-and-9 from their 48 early in the third quarter and trailing 13-7, O'Donnell badly overthrew a wide-open Ernie Mills along the right sideline while being blitzed. Brown intercepted the pass and returned it 44 yards to Pittsburgh's 18, setting up a 1-yard touchdown run by Emmitt Smith two plays later.

2. On second-and-10 from his 32 with 4:15 left, O'Donnell—trying to rally the Steelers from a 20-17 deficit—threw a pass out of shotgun formation intended for wide receiver Andre Hastings. But Hastings and O'Donnell got crossed up when Dallas blitzed, as Hastings broke inside and O'Donnell threw outside. As a result, the only player near the pass was Brown, who caught the ball and returned it 33 yards to the Steelers' 6. Two plays later, Smith scored the game's final touchdown with 3:43 left.

Notable: Brown was the first cornerback named Super Bowl MVP. . . . Smith's two touchdowns gave him five in three Super Bowls, the most in the game's history. . . . Cowboys quarterback Troy Aikman completed 10 consecutive passes at one point, the second-most in Super Bowl history. . . . In the second half, the Steelers enjoyed big advantages in total plays (52-19), yards (201-61) and time of possession (21:20-8:40). The Cowboys needed just 54 seconds to score their two second-half touchdowns after Brown's interceptions. . . . Dallas' 254 yards in total offense was the second-lowest for a Super Bowl winner. Miami had 253 yards when it beat Washington, 14-7, in 1973. . . . Barry Switzer joined Jimmy Johnson as the only coaches to win a national college championship and a Super Bowl. . . . Dallas defensive end Charles Haley became the first player to win five Super Bowl rings. The Cowboys joined Haley's former team, the San Francisco 49ers, as the only teams to win the Super Bowl five times. . . . Pittsburgh lost for the first time in five Super Bowl games.

Quotable: Brown: "In a playoff game, and especially a Super Bowl, every play is critical. So whenever you have a chance to make a play, you have to." . . . Cowboys defensive tackle Russell Maryland, asked to compare this team with Dallas' other two Super Bowl winners in the 1990s: "I don't know if this is the best team we've had, but it's the best feeling because of all the adversity we had to go through." . . . Aikman: "All along, I've felt that this team overcame more than what the other two Super Bowl teams had. It's a rewarding feeling." . . . Haley: "This is the highlight of my career. I would start crying, but I don't want people to think I'm weak." . . . Pittsburgh coach Bill Cowher: "The bottom line was the two big plays. We couldn't get the ball by turnovers and they got the interceptions. That is the difference sometimes when two good teams play." . . . Chuck Noll, who coached the Steelers to four Super Bowl titles in the 1970s, on the Cowboys: "They are a great, great team. People think it is easy to do what they have done. But it isn't. Or more would have done it."

PRO BOWL

AT ALOHA STADIUM, HONOLULU, FEBRUARY 4, 1996

NFC 20, AFC 13

Why the NFC won: It kept the game plan simple and made no mistakes. In a game where unfamiliarity often results in miscommunication, NFC players had little difficulty working with one another. Quarterbacks Brett Favre, Steve Young and Warren Moon combined to complete half their passes without throwing an interception and were sacked only once. Favre and 49ers receiver Jerry Rice (six catches, 82 yards, one touchdowns) worked particularly well together.

Why the AFC lost: Unlike the NFC, the AFC made plenty of mistakes. Indianapolis quarterback Jim Harbaugh accounted for three of the four interceptions thrown by the AFC (one of which was returned for a touchdown) to nullify the conference's 390-287 edge in total yards, including 127-49 in rushing yards.

The turning points:

1. With the NFC leading 10-7 late in the first half, Washington linebacker Ken Harvey returned a Harbaugh pass 36 yards for a touchdown to give the NFC a 10-point lead. On the AFC's next possession, Harbaugh was intercepted again, this time by Dallas' Darren Woodson, and the turnover led to a 24-yard Morten Andersen field goal and a 20-7 NFC halftime lead.

2. After driving the AFC from its 42 to the NFC 8, Harbaugh was intercepted a third time—by San Francisco's Tim McDonald—with 1:50 left. Then, on the AFC's final possession, Harbaugh threw three consecutive incompletions from the NFC 14, the final one well over the head of a wide-open Tim Brown in the end zone.

Notable: The game's first touchdown, a 93-yard pass from Cincinnati's Jeff Blake to Pittsburgh's Yancey Thigpen at 2:26 of the first quarter, was the longest scoring play in Pro Bowl history. It eclipsed a 76-yard pass from Dan Pastorini to Ken Burrough (both of Houston) in 1976. . . . Rice, who was playing in his eighth Pro Bowl, was named the MVP.

Quotable: Rice on his TD catch: "When I looked back, I didn't see (Favre); I just saw the ball. We run a similar kind of offense at San Francisco, so I didn't have to do too much thinking today." . . . Harbaugh on the Harvey interception: "I saw him there and I thought I could get it by him. He made a good play and he was gone. I saw him standing right there and I thought I could slip it by him and I couldn't." . . . Blake on his record-setting touchdown pass to Thigpen: "I was looking at the tight end (Ben Coates) and saw Merton Hanks (the defender on the play) come up to the middle of the field to cover Yancey. He came up too far and I saw Yancey go right past him, so I laid it up."

BROADWAY JOE

Jets quarterback Joe Namath "guaranteed" a victory over the Baltimore Colts in Super Bowl III and delivered, leading New York to a 16-7 victory. Although Namath's statistics for the game were modest—17 completions in 28 attempts for 206 yards and no touchdowns—the victory wasn't. It was a landmark win for an American Football League team over the more established NFL, which had won the first two Super Bowl games with ease.

A LONG WAIT ENDS

The Pittsburgh Steelers won their first NFL title with a 16-6 victory over Minnesota in Super Bowl IX. Franco Harris carried 34 times for a Super Bowl-record 158 yards to help Steelers founder Art Rooney visualize his dream of an NFL championship after 42 years of ownership. Before winning the AFC Central Division title in 1972 (their first championship of any kind, their second came in 1974), Rooney's Steelers had finished last 11 times, fourth 10 times and second six times since entering the NFL in 1933.

A SUPER SLUMP

The Minnesota Vikings' knack for losing Super Bowls continued in January 1977 as the Vikings lost in the NFL's big game for the fourth time in eight years, including three of the past four seasons. Minnesota's latest setback was a 32-14 loss to the Oakland Raiders, who jumped out to a 16-0 halftime lead and never looked back. The Raiders rolled up 429 total yards in offense and held Chuck Foreman, the Vikings' star running back, to 44 yards on 17 attempts.

THE BEST EVER?

Such things are subjective, but the 1978 Pittsburgh Steelers could make a legitimate claim for being the best team in NFL history. With Terry Bradshaw at quarterback, Franco Harris at running back and Lynn Swann and John Stallworth at wide receiver, the '78 Steelers steamrolled the rest of the league. Of their 17 victories (including playoffs), 11 were by 10 points or more. The club's two defeats totaled 10 points. Pittsburgh's "Steel Curtain" defense of Joe Greene, Jack Ham, Jack Lambert and Mel Blount (all Hall of Famers) yielded a league-low 195 points during the regular season. When the Steelers edged Dallas, 35-31, in Super Bowl XIII, it marked their third league championship in five years.

As a result of a 57-day players' strike, the 1982 NFL regular season schedule was reduced from 16 weeks to 9. At the conclusion of the regular season, a 16-team Super Bowl Tournament was held. Eight teams from each conference were seeded 1 through 8 based on their records during regular season play.

Miami finished ahead of Cincinnati based on a better conference record. Pittsburgh won common games tiebreaker with San Diego after New York Jets were eliminated from three-way tie based on conference record. Cleveland finished ahead of Buffalo and Seattle based on better conference record. Minnesota, Atlanta, St. Louis and Tampa Bay seeds were determined by best won-lost record in conference games. Detroit finished ahead of New Orleans and the New York Giants based on a better conference record.

PRO FOOTBALL STRIKES OUT

The NFL was hit by its first in-season work stoppage in history on September 20, 1982, when the players union, unhappy that an impasse had been reached on a new collective bargaining agreement with management, called a strike. When play resumed November 21, the two-month layoff seemed to have had a varying effect. Tampa Bay, for example, may have been helped. After an 0-2 start, the Buccaneers righted themselves to win five of their last six games and qualify for the playoffs. Defending league champion San Francisco, however, was hurt. The 49ers began the year 0-2 and didn't regain their footing when the season resumed. The Dallas Cowboys, losers of the previous two NFC title games, weren't affected much at all. They went on to lose their third consecutive conference championship game.

BIG BAD BEARS

The Chicago Bears dominated pro football in 1985 like few teams in NFL history, winning all but one game during the regular season and outscoring three opponents, 91-10, in the playoffs (two by shutout). The Bears, in fact, were so confident of their eventual Super Bowl triumph that a number of them recorded a video, The Super Bowl Shuffle, weeks before the playoffs even began. As it turned out, the players were right. The Bears' 46-10 victory over New England was the most lopsided in Super Bowl history. Chicago's defense allowed the fewest points in the league, its offense scored the second-most, and a league-high nine Bears made the Pro Bowl.

COWBOYS' STREAK ENDS

In 1986, sports fans witnessed something they hadn't seen in a generation—a losing season by the Dallas Cowboys. Beginning with their 10-3-1 record in 1966, the Cowboys compiled a string of 20 consecutive winning seasons, the longest of any NFL team and the third-longest such streak in pro sports history. Only the New York Yankees, who had a 39-year streak from 1926-64, and the Montreal Canadiens, who had a 32-year streak from 1952-83, put together longer streaks of consecutive winning seasons.

NINERS ARE FINER

In 1988 and '89, the San Francisco 49ers became the first team since the Pittsburgh Steelers a decade earlier to win back-to-back Super Bowl titles. San Francisco's latest two Super Bowl victories, however, were as dissimilar as night and day. The 49ers' 29-16 victory over Cincinnati in January 1989 was one of the most dramatic in Super Bowl history, undecided until Joe Montana hit John Taylor with a 10-yard scoring pass with 34 seconds left. A year later, San Francisco beat Denver, 55-10, as Montana threw five TD passes in one of the worst thrashings in Super Bowl history.

BILLS BUFFALOED

Symmetry-wise, the 1990 NFL season was a strange one. In the AFC, all three division races were close, with the Buffalo Bills and Los Angeles Raiders winning their divisions by one game and the Central Division winding up in a three-way tie for first. In the NFC, the races looked more like runaways as the Giants, Bears and 49ers dominated. So what happened in the two conference title games? The Bills blew out the Raiders and the Giants edged the 49ers, setting the stage for one of the most memorable Super Bowls ever. The Giants nipped the Bills, 20-19, when Buffalo's Scott Norwood misfired on a 47-yard field goal attempt with eight second left.

COACHING CAROUSEL

The biggest coaching turnover in 14 years occurred in 1992 as nine coaches debuted with new teams. Two of them—Chuck Knox of the Rams and Ted Marchibroda of the Colts—were returning to clubs they had coached previously, while two others (Seattle's Tom Flores and Tampa Bay's Sam Wyche) had prior NFL head-coaching experience. Of the five first-time coaches, three led their teams to division championships: Pittsburgh's Bill Cowher, Minnesota's Dennis Green and San Diego's Bobby Ross.

*This chart includes passer rating points for all leaders, although the same rating system was not used for determining leading quarterbacks prior to 1973. The old system was less equitable, yet similar to the new in that the rating was based on percentage of completions, touchdown passes, percentage of interceptions and average gain in yards.

The old system was less equitable, yet similar to the new in that the rating was based on percentage of completions, touchdown passes, percentage of interceptions and average gain in yards.
